U.S. SCIENTISTS WIN NOBEL MEDICINE PRIZE FOR DISCOVERY OF microRNA

Victor Ambros and Gary Ruvkun discovered microRNA, the tiny pieces of genetic material that alter how genes work at the cellular level

A NEW PRINCIPLE OF GENE REGULATION: JURY

Though each cell in our body has the same set of instructions, called DNA, some turn into brain cells, while others become muscles. That's because microRNAs regulate genes at cellular level, acting as a switch that turns genes off or on. "Their groundbreaking discovery revealed a new principle of gene regulation essential for multicellular organisms," the jury said

PROMISING WEAPON IN FIGHT AGAINST CANCER

- Ambros and Ruvkun discovered microRNAs during their study on two mutant strains of worms. The study's results were published in 1993
- As microRNAs allow us to control the behaviour of genes, they could help in treating various diseases. In cancer patients, they can be used to cause the mutated gene in the cancer cells to stop its activities | P14

India extends $400 mn assistance to Maldives, signs a slew of pacts

₹3,000 cr currency swap deal to address forex shortage; RuPay card launched in Malé

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

INDIA on Monday took a major step in healing the strained ties with the Maldives by enhancing its development assistance to the cash-strapped nation and signing a slew of pacts, including a ₹3,000 crore currency swap agreement.

After the bilateral talks with the visiting Maldivian President Mohamed Muizzu, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced a $400 million support to the island nation to overcome its financial challenges.

Announcing the details, the Reserve Bank of India said it has entered into a currency swap agreement with the Maldives Monetary Authority (MMA) under the SAARC Currency Swap Framework 2024-27. Under the pact, the MMA is eligible for financing support from the RBI amounting to $400 million under the US Dollar/Euro Swap Window and ₹3,000 crore under the INR Swap Window. The agreement would be valid till June 18, 2027.

The SAARC currency swap framework is designed to offer short-term foreign exchange liquidity to member countries experiencing balance of payments stress or foreign exchange shortages. It serves as a temporary solution until more permanent financing arrangements can be made.

The bilateral meet saw the signing of several pacts, including the launch of RuPay card in the Maldives and enhancing the relationship between the two nations to a Comprehensive Economic and Maritime Security Partnership.

Modi and Muizzu virtually inaugurated the new runway at the Hanimadhoo International airport and witnessed a live transaction using a RuPay payment service card in the Maldives. The airport's redevelopment under Indian Line of Credit of $132 million aims to provide complete new infrastructure including ATC tower, hangar, cargo facilities, and passenger terminal building.

The two leaders agreed to bolster bilateral ties that had hit a rocky patch last year after some Maldivian ministers tried to fan anti-India sentiments.

Stressing India's historic relations with the Maldives, Modi said New Delhi has supported Malé in times of crisis. "India has always been the first responder for Maldives whether it was essential commodities or vaccines," he added.

Muizzu thanked India for the assistance. "We hope to welcome more Indian tourists to Maldives," he said.

Cabinet will decide on caste census report on October 18, says Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AMID the growing demand from leaders of Backward Classes (BC) to implement the socio-economic and educational survey report, popularly known as caste census, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Monday said that a decision on implementing it will be taken after discussion at the cabinet meeting on October 18.

After a meeting with ministers, legislators and leaders from Backward Classes, Siddaramaiah told reporters that Karnataka is the first state in the country to conduct such a survey during his first tenure as chief minister (2013 to 2018). The survey report was submitted to the state government in February. But the CM said he has not gone through the report.

The report, prepared by the H Kantharaj Commission, is not just about Backward Classes, but it has covered all seven crore people of the state, the CM said. Legislators and leaders from BC communities have urged him to implement the recommendations of the report, he added.

Siddaramaiah said that during his first tenure as CM, the commission conducted a detailed survey, but its report was not ready then. It was completed when HD Kumaraswamy was chief minister, but he refused to accept it. Later, the BJP government too did not accept the report. "We will take an appropriate decision after discussing it at the cabinet meeting," he added. But sources said that even after cabinet discussion, a cabinet sub-committee is likely to be formed to look into the report and give its recommendations. On Monday, a delegation of around 30 leaders, including ministers, MLAs, MLCs, and former chairman of the State Backward Classes Commission CS Dwarkanath, met the chief minister. P4

50-year-old woman dies after live wire falls on her

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A 50-year-old woman died on the spot after a high voltage 11kV wire snapped and fell on her around 10am on Monday at Chikkanahalli in Tavarekere police limits of Ramanagara district.

Enraged by this, people of Chikkanahalli staged a protest demanding that action be taken against BESCOM officials.

Manjamma was talking to two women on the road in front of her house when the live wire fell on her. The other women escaped narrowly. One of them tried to help Manjamma, but she was pushed away by a villager.

"Due to the flashover of the pin insulator, the high-voltage wire snapped and fell on the woman. Her kin Shivaram has filed a complaint. A case of death due to negligence has been registered against local BESCOM officials," a police officer said.

Nelamangala MLA N Sreenivasaiah, who visited Chikkanahalli, persuaded the villagers to withdraw their protest, stating that he would take up the matter with BESCOM officials. The body was sent to Rajarajeshwari Hospital for postmortem.

BESCOM officials, however, refused to comment, stating that they are waiting for a report from the electrical inspectorate and the postmortem report. On November 19, 2023, Soundarya, 23, and her nine-month-old daughter Suviksha of Kadugodi were charred to death at Hope Farm in Whitefield after a live wire fell on them. Five BESCOM officials were suspended in this connection. Kadugodi police had arrested the officials for negligence. However, they were released on bail within hours of their arrest.

Parties brace for J&K, Haryana verdict today

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

WITH the counting of votes for Haryana and J&K assembly elections on Tuesday, the results would hold significance for all major players, coming as they do three months after the Modi government assumed office for the third consecutive term.

While Haryana witnessed the first direct contest between the BJP and the Congress after the Lok Sabha polls, the mood is upbeat in the grand old party as most of the exit polls predicted its smooth win. If the exit poll results are validated in Haryana, it will be a shot in the arm for the Congress and the INDIA bloc in the upcoming Maharashtra and Jharkhand elections.

The party is hoping to keep up the momentum of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, where a resurgent Opposition INDIA bloc reduced the ruling BJP to 240 seats. For the Congress, victory in Haryana would indicate a strong support from the farmers and the Dalit community, which constitutes 20% of the state's population. However, a tussle for the chief minister's post can mar the glory of a Congress victory with former CM Bhupender Singh Hooda and his bete noire Kumari Selja vying for the top post.

Despite the exit poll results, the ruling BJP is confident of retaining power for a third term. Apart from the BJP and the Congress, the Aam Aadmi Party, INLD-BSP and JJP-Azad Samaj Party are also in the fray.

In the keenly watched J&K polls, some pollsters have given an edge to the Congress-National Conference alliance while others predicted a hung assembly. These polls are the first since the abrogation of Article 370. While the BJP is hoping to form the government in 'Naya Kashmir' with the help of Independents, the Congress-NC alliance has also begun backchannel talks with other parties.

J&K saw the entry of a large number of Independents and smaller parties like the People's Conference, Apni Party and Awami Ittehad Party (AIP). The PDP, which severed its ties with the BJP in 2018, is hoping to emerge as a kingmaker. On Monday, NC president Farooq Abdullah said he will "accept PDP's support from the core of his heart". P12

5-year-old boy dies after eating stale food in city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A five-year-old boy died after eating some stale food at his house on Monday. Food poisoning is suspected to be the reason for his death. The deceased has been identified as B Dheeraj of Bhuvaneshwari Nagar in KP Agrahara.

The boy's father Balaraj, 42, a food delivery agent, and mother Nagalakshmi, 35, a housewife, who also ate the food, are being treated in the Intensive Care Unit (ICU) of KIMS Hospital in VV Puram. They are said to be out of danger. They started vomiting and developed symptoms of diarrhea after eating the food. The couple hails from Tamil Nadu.

Balaraj, who initially claimed that they had a cake, later stated that they also had some food, including papad, according to hospital sources.

Balaraj, Nagalakshmi and Dheeraj were rushed to the hospital around 10 am. However, Dheeraj was declared brought dead. The reason for the boy's death will be known after getting the postmortem report on Tuesday, the sources said. "We will send the food items consumed by them for tests," S Girish, DCP (West), said.

Boy's grandmother Chamundeshwari told TNIE that she and her family members rushed to the hospital from their house in Kengeri after receiving a call around 9.30 am. "When I spoke to my son Balaraj in the hospital, he said they had rice for lunch on Sunday along with papad purchased from a fair price shop near their house. My son stated that he ate three papads, his wife two, and Dheeraj one. After some time, they experienced stomach pain, which they thought was normal. In the evening, they had a cake. After eating it, they felt stomach pain again.

Global conflicts take the moolah out of the Amritsar chess industry

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A bustling industry of chess kits with an international clientele is struggling due to global uncertainty following the Israel and Ukraine wars.

Before the wars broke, chess kit manufacturers in Amritsar sold goods worth about ₹20 crore, of which 75% was exported. Export orders are now down by 70-80%. Wooden chess kits are among the sought-after gift items during Christmas and New Year, yet there is little demand as of now.

"Though winter is our busiest season, most of us hardly have any orders," rues Rishi Sharma, a third generation manufacturer, who says his business took a 40% hit last year. He proudly claims he made a chess set for English business magnate Richard Branson in 2021.

Amritsar has a small but specialised industry of about 35 medium and small chess manufactures. They employ around 500 highly skilled artisans plus another 1,000 semi-skilled workers to make the wooden pieces and sets. It's a craft that has been passed from generation to generation.

The artisans take great pride in their artistry as they use simple implements to carve the exquisite pieces. For example, the carving of a knight itself takes 5-7 days. The cost of their chess kits ranges between ₹5,000 and ₹25,000 depending on the quality, design, material and craftsmanship.

"We were exporting to the US, Canada, the UK, Europe, Australia, Ukraine, Iran and Israel. But with inflation rising due to global uncertainty, our industry has been affected," says Sharma.

The cost of raw material and labour, too, have gone through the roof. Then there is the issue of obtaining a 'Vriksh Certificate' from the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES).

The certification process, started in 2018, takes 15-30 days to get as every minute detail of each sheesham tree, from where wood for the chess pieces are sourced, are to be recorded and shared.

"Due to these stringent rules restricting the sale of sheesham, the market share of wooden chess sets has declined sharply," says Sharma.

Surjit Singh Ahuja, another Amritsar-based exporter, says, "when a Netflix web series, The Queen's Gambit released in the UK in 2020, it was a worldwide hit and our sales went up manifold. The bounce continued till December 2022 before it tapered down."

IVORY TO RED SANDERS TO SHEESHAM

Before Independence, chess pieces were carved out of ivory. When ivory was banned, it was replaced with red sanders. When that too was prohibited, manufacturers shifted to sheesham. Now that sheesham is on the restricted list, chess pieces are made from Kikkar as well

Don't panic, there's no hurry to get e-khata

Check with help desk at Bengaluru One centres, download document at home, says minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THERE is no deadline for property owners in Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) limits to register for e-khatha, clarified Revenue Minister Krishna Byregowda, adding that there is no need for the public to panic, as helpdesks are being set up at Bengaluru One centres across the city.

After a meeting with BBMP officials on Monday, and discussing the prevailing confusion regarding e-khatha, the minister said, "In some areas, middlemen have created confusion and extorted people by claiming the government has set a time limit to get e-khathas. However, the government has not fixed any time-frame. The public can get e-khatha without panicking and hurrying. Don't listen to speculation and get worried."

He added that the e-khatha system has been implemented to prevent fake registration. "E-khatha is mandatory only in cases where properties are sold or purchased. Also, on the instructions of Deputy Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar, discussions were held with the special commissioner of the corporation on appropriate steps to simplify the process, he informed.

He added that there is no need for the public to visit offices to get the e-khatha. Instead, they can download the e-khatha from home, he said.

"Bengaluru has 21 lakh plots. BBMP has already uploaded details of these locations on its website. Property owners can get a permanent e-khatha from home without going to any office by looking at the dropdown menu and attaching the necessary documents on the website," he said. "Help desks have been opened in all Assistant Revenue Officer (ARO Office) offices under BBMP with immediate effect so that property owners can easily get e-khathas without any confusion.

Also, property owners are required to provide certain documents, which can be uploaded on the website. The facility will be provided in Bangalore-One centres in the next two-three days," he said.

He said the e-khatha system will provide a permanent solution to avoid the menace of middlemen and duplicate registration, and protect the ownership of property owners.

If the e-khatha system is implemented once, it will be the best model in the entire country, the minister said, adding that all confusions over the issue will be resolved in a week.

Flooded Kendriya Vihar apartment after Saturday night's rain | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

63 houses to get ₹10k each after flooding

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath informed that the heavy rain on Saturday and Sunday flooded 63 houses in Mahalakshmi Layout apart from the Kendriya Vihar apartment complex in Yelahanka zone. As more damages have been reported at Mahalakshmi Layout, the zonal commissioner has been instructed to pay compensation to the affected houses.

Speaking to reporters on Monday, the Palike chief also mentioned that nearly 800 potholes have appeared in the city following the rain, and the BBMP will fix them soon.

Though Mahadevapura and Bommanahalli zones recorded low rainfall, they faced serious traffic issues. In Hampi Nagar in West zone, 108.2 mm of rainfall was recorded in 2.5 hours on Saturday evening. Similarly, surrounding areas like Nandini Layout, Yelahanka and others recorded heavy rainfall, he said.

"The apartment complex at Kendriya Vihar came up outside the Yelahanka lake bund. The wall that protected the complex from flooding collapsed and hence it was flooded. We have deployed people to pump out water. In the West zone, heavy rainfall for an hour flooded 63 homes in Mahalakshmi Layout. I have directed the zonal commissioner to compensate the houses that were damaged," he said.

The chief commissioner also informed that in Binny Pet, the wall that had collapsed was on private property and there was no injury and no flooding. The Palike also cleared about 20 trees that were uprooted in the rain.

Asked about the possibility of encroachments that could be a reason for the flooding of the apartment complex in Yelahanka, he clarified that Kendriya Vihar is situated below the tank bund. "Although we constructed a stormwater drain, during heavy rain, the area is prone to flooding. We cannot say if there is any encroachment in the area. In the past, the place was shown as an irrigation canal and did not have much width. And slowly houses started to come up. It was outside the planning area earlier and was added only recently. There will always be problems, but we will try to solve them. We will see if we have to make another canal," Girinath said.

On the compensation for houses that were flooded, he said the Palike is giving Rs 10,000 for each house under the direct benefit transfer from its fund. He also mentioned that during his night rounds during the rain, he found water stagnation at Hebbal service road only.

Palike gets FIR lodged against house owner for unauthorised excavation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has got an FIR registered against a house owner for unauthorised excavation leading to the collapse of a part of a 70-foot-long drain.

According to Assistant Executive Engineer (RR Nagar sub-division) Varanarayana K, when the construction work was taken up near Ideal Homes Layout in Kenchenahalli of Rajarajeshwari Nagar zone, the Palike had sought details like plan approval and basement plan from the house owner under Section 313 of BBMP Act 2020.

The owner not only failed to respond, but went ahead with the unauthorised excavation of the ground, leading to the damage of the drain as well as the footpath along it. Even the BMTC bus stand along the drain is likely to collapse. Due to this, the department will incur a loss of Rs 20 lakh. "Hence, we filed a case against the site owner for causing damage to public property," he said.

"We did not know who the owner was, and hence we had to put up the notice at the site. Later, we got to know the owner's name as Manje Gowda, who was responsible for excavating the ground for about six-eight feet without obtaining map approval for construction of a building, due to which part of the drain and footpath collapsed, causing difficulty for public movement," he said.

There is a possibility of damage to neighbouring houses, too, as the work was being done without taking any precautions, said Palike engineers.

Anganwadis call for boosting ICDS

Bengaluru: As Anganwadi centres in Karnataka marked their 50th anniversary on October 2, a set of proposals aimed at addressing key challenges and ensuring the long-term success of the Integrated Child Development Services (ICDS) scheme was submitted to the state government. The proposals were outlined and discussed during a two-day seminar held by 'Save Children Forum,' which concluded here on Monday. Anganwadi centres are currently facing several obstacles due to the absence of a legal framework. To resolve these issues, members of these centres proposed that a draft bill be introduced during the winter session in 2024 to provide legal backing to the ICDS scheme, ensuring the coverage of care, nutrition and pre-primary education. The proposal includes the formation of a committee by October 30 this year, comprising all stakeholders, to draft the bill and oversee its implementation. Additionally, it calls for increasing the ICDS budget to keep up with inflation, removing GST on supplementary nutrition provided to Anganwadi centres and establishing a separate ICDS Project Directorate for better supervision. The proposal also emphasises the need for an immediate salary increase for Anganwadi workers, which has not been revised since September, with a recommended minimum salary of Rs 26,000. ENS

City's 1st intra-layout bus service captures public fancy

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

IT has been a year since the city's first intra-layout bus service started criss-crossing HSR Layout. Launched with scepticism over its patronage in this relatively upscale locality, it has belied assumptions and has emerged as a big hit now. With the Metro Yellow Line (RV Road-Bommasandra) planned for launch in January next year, the last mile connectivity has already been established in the area, said residents.

G T Prabhakar Reddy, BMTC Chief Traffic Manager (Operations), said, "We are operating 168 full trips daily with ten buses earmarked to be operated only within the area. An average of 4,000 residents use the bus daily, which covers 8.6 km per loop trip. We were pleasantly surprised by the patronage for this feeder service. "

The service was launched on August 1, 2023. The circuitous route begins from Agara and has 18 stops. It passes via Parangipalya, Mangammanapalya, Mc Donald's and returns to Agara. It operates with a ten-minute frequency. "The ticket is a flat Rs 10 regardless of whichever stop one alights. Women get to travel free," Reddy said. "We plan to use them as feeder buses for Metro after operations are launched here."

Though the service runs on a loss, the Directorate of Urban Land Transport will compensate BMTC for the initial 1.5 years, the manager added.

The aggressive and pro-active role played by two organisations in the area -- the HSR Citizen Forum and HSR Cyclists Group -- have been instrumental in goading residents to opt for public transport.

Jayanthi Srikanth, Founder-Member of the forum, said, "We can safely state that we are now Metro-ready. The need for buses within the layout was the top demand spelt out by residents when we took part in a Sustainability Mobility Accord, a contest organised by DULT. Since the initial period is crucial, members of both groups spent the first 67 days on the ground going all out to ensure that residents make good use of the buses through numerous campaigns." The carbon footprint we have reduced must be considerable, she added.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

08TH October : Here's a far-out exercise for today. Next time you look at yourself in the mirror, stop and think about the fact that all the matter in your body, every atom and every cell, was once part of our Sun. What's more, before then it was in another star. And, before that, it was in another. Yes, as the songs says, we are all stardust!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The Sun is now casting a somewhat vague shadow over your solar chart. You are likely to benefit from this special pattern if you see your current plans through to the end. In some circumstances your only choice may be to defer certain arrangements for a month or so.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The Moon's aspects for much of the day are perfect, enhancing all that is best about your Taurean character. And that, by the way, includes your ability to extend the hand of friend-ship to rivals. So easy and relaxed is your position that there is no need to do anything other than be yourself.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It's your intuition which holds the key to financial success. The only question is how you can judge between different options on something so vague as a general hunch? You may have no choice but to take a gamble. Events over the following few days will show whether you were right - or not!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The Sun's constructive relationship with your sign is complemented by another fine alignment from the Moon - one which will get you moving. All you need to do to extract the greatest benefit is broaden your horizons and genuinely take partners' interests into account.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Pride and egotism are the Leonine vice. Today you have the chance to practise humility. What makes the present time special is because you may discover that, ironically, your own interests may be best served by putting other people first - and not for the first time.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Sun is now aligned with a sensitive sector of your solar chart. This will have various consequences, one of which will be to get your conscience working even harder than usual. In love, give a partner the benefit of the doubt. After all, if you don't know what's going on, why should they!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
According to the ancient astrologers, the Sun's present position is a highly fortunate one, on the grounds that your love of peace and harmony is good for everyone. Make the most of current responsibilities to help someone else out of a tight spot.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Don't take too much notice of what other people say or imply; the blunt fact is that they just don't have your appreciation of what has been going on, especially the subtler aspects of inter-personal relationships. Let unkind words bounce off you like water off a duck's back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
By rights you feel as if you should only have to snap your fingers to get what you want. And why not? Yet, if there is one lesson you have been absorbing over recent weeks, it is that you must be prepared to put your ideas into practice yourself, without relying on other people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The Moon is in an intimate relationship with Jupiter. This sets up a number of possible feelings ranging from wild optimism to reckless extravagance. The only risk with high expectations is that they may be out of step with what is realistically possible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
A baffling atmosphere may be followed by an entirely more reasonable mood later on. Yet you will still probably have only the slightest grasp on what is really happening. But it's not only you. People around you may also be picking up the wrong end of the stick!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The Sun is now making its peaceful way through a fresh and intriguing sector of your chart, which means that this is a special time of year. The fact that this process has been inaugurated by a fabulous alignment with Jupiter, your benevolent planetary ruler, can only give cause for optimism.

HAL: FORCE BEHIND THE INDIAN AIR FORCE

HAL has been the cornerstone of India's aerospace defence, powering the Indian Air Force (IAF) from its formative years to its current status as a global force, while paving the way for future advancements.

Historical Roots: A Legacy of Partnership

Having gained significant expertise in aeronautical engineering during World War II, and pursuing self-reliance, HAL transformed itself into a principal design, development and production center, successfully rolling out indigenised aircraft such as Hindustan Trainer (HT)-2, Hindustan Fighter (HF)-24 'Marut', Hindustan Piston Trainer (HPT)-32 'Deepak', constantly supporting the needs of the IAF.

HAL quickly became the principal partner for the IAF, founded in 1932, in fortifying the nation and strengthening the security of our borders as India sought to build an independent aerospace industry.

Post-independence, HAL produced and maintained aircraft such as the Gnat and Hunter, which were crucial to India's defence efforts in the 60s and 70s. This early collaboration cemented HAL's role in providing combat-ready aircraft during pivotal moments in Indian military history.

Pioneering Aircraft Development for the IAF

HAL has consistently delivered cutting-edge aircraft tailored to the IAF's requirements. HAL has also manufactured and delivered to IAF, a variety of Combat aircraft like the MiGs, Jaguar, Trainer aircraft 'Hindustan Jet Trainer Kiran', and Transport aircraft like Do-228.

HAL forayed into rotary wing production to address IAF's requirement of a light and high-altitude helicopter in the early 1970s. Against the backdrop of the success of Cheetah/Chetak helicopters, HAL launched manufacturing of indigenously designed and developed Advanced Light Helicopter (ALH) Dhruv. ALH, the workhorse of Indian Defence Forces has become a benchmark for the rotorcraft industry and its successful induction has further led to the design and development of Light Combat Helicopter (LCH) and a weaponised version 'Rudra' (ALH-WSI). These helicopters strengthen the IAF's helicopter fleet.

Notable among HAL's contributions is the Tejas Light Combat Aircraft (LCA), an indigenous multirole fighter that stands as a testament to India's growing self-reliance in aerospace technologies. The Tejas, designed to replace the aging MiG-21, has advanced avionics, supersonic speed, and superior maneuverability. This home-grown aircraft marks a significant leap in HAL's capability of developing and establishing an aerospace ecosystem. HAL ensures that the IAF has a modern fighter tailored to its specific needs.

Another critical platform is the Sukhoi Su-30 MKI, India's frontline fighter. HAL has been instrumental in license-manufacturing this aircraft, ensuring the IAF's air superiority. The successful integration of BrahMos missile on Su-30 MKI has further proved HAL's credentials in its system integration capability.

HAL also supports the IAF's training requirements through the Hawk Advanced Jet Trainers (AJT), crucial for preparing new generations of fighter pilots. HAL's Hindustan Turbo Trainer – 40 will soon enter the services of the IAF to train rookie pilots.

Supporting Every Step in IAF's Journey

Today, around 70% of IAF's fleet is being maintained and supported by HAL. This share is set to increase with the continued induction of LCA. HAL's role extends beyond manufacturing; it also provides comprehensive Maintenance, Repair, and Overhaul (MRO) services that keep the IAF's fleet operational through the entire lifecycle. The legacy fleet of Air Force like Kiran, Avro, Cheetah/Chetak are being supported by HAL for decades together. HAL also operates a vast network of facilities to maintain and overhaul everything from engines to avionics, ensuring minimal downtime for aircraft.

This extensive MRO support allows the IAF to maintain a high-level of operational readiness, even in the most challenging conditions. By extending the service life of aircraft, HAL reduces the need for new acquisitions and ensures fleet sustainability.

Aircraft Upgrades

HAL has also taken up aircraft upgrade programme for enhancing the capabilities and extending the operational life of various platforms like Jaguar, Mirage & Do-228, held with IAF. These initiatives are aimed at ensuring improved overall performance, reliability and sustenance of the fleet.

A Strategic Partner for the Future

HAL's commitment to the IAF's future needs is evident with focus on Research and Development. The Advanced Medium Combat Aircraft (AMCA), LCA Mk 2, Indian Multi Role Helicopter (IMRH) projects, which are being spearheaded by HAL, will ensure that the IAF remains a dominant force in the skies.

HAL remains deeply committed to support the IAF in every capacity. With an eye firmly on future technologies, HAL is poised to strengthen the IAF for decades to come, ensuring that India's air defence remains robust, reliable, and always ready to meet any challenge.

Fill 34,863 vacant posts in time-bound manner: CM

'Implement uniform recruitment system along the lines of UPSC'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Monday said 34,863 vacant posts in various government departments need to be filled in a time-bound manner, by giving priority to the departments handling essential services.

The CM also directed the officials to take steps to implement a uniform recruitment system along the lines of the Union Public Service Commission (UPSC) by bringing a comprehensive reform in the recruitment system in the state.

On Monday, the CM reviewed the recruitment process in various departments. A meeting of all recruitment authorities was held last week under the chairmanship of the Chief Secretary to discuss measures needed to improve the recruitment process. Siddaramaiah instructed to review the recommendations made in that meeting and implement them.

The UPSC is recruiting for Group A and Group B posts. Similarly, there has been a discussion about KPSC conducting the recruitment process only for Group A and B, and the Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA) will do the recruitment for Group C and other posts. During the meeting, the CM directed the officials to address the shortcomings in preparing the recruitment calendar for the year. Proposals should be sent to the Finance Department about the vacant posts in the department at the beginning of the financial year and recruitment should be done in a time-bound manner by obtaining approval of the Finance Department, the CM directed.

The CM also directed the officials to visit Kerala to study their recruitment model. The officials were also directed to consider the Excise Department system of conducting the written test followed by a physical test for police sub-inspector recruitment.

The recruitment of 41 departments in the state is getting delayed as cadre and recruitment rules were not amended. In some departments, C&R has not been amended for decades. The CM instructed the officials to prepare C&R rules keeping in mind the convenience of all departments.

HDK says Cong using caste census to divert attention from MUDA issue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Steel and Heavy Industries, HD Kumaraswamy, on Monday said that to divert public attention from the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) sites allotment case against Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Congress leaders are now talking about the caste census report. Kumaraswamy, a former chief minister, dared the Congress to dissolve the Assembly and go for elections with the caste census issue.

Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru, Kumaraswamy said that every time serious allegations are made against the State Government, they (Congress leaders) try to divert people's attention elsewhere. The survey was commissioned 10 years ago and the report was also submitted long back, but why it was not released until now, he questioned. "They accuse me of not allowing the release of the caste census report. It was handed over to Siddaramaiah before the Lok Sabha elections. Why there was no discussion about it until now?" Kumaraswamy said.

> They accuse me of not allowing the release of the caste census report. It was handed over to Siddaramaiah before the Lok Sabha elections. Why there was no discussion about it until now?
> HD Kumaraswamy, Union Minister

The state JDS president further accused the Congress leaders of trying to mislead the people and use the caste census report issue for their political gains. The report will not benefit any community, he added.

In response to a question on senior Congress leader BK Hariprasad's remarks that the State Government must implement the report if even it leads to the fall of the government, Kumaraswamy dared Congress to dissolve the Assembly and go to elections with the caste census issue.

Kumaraswamy said that Siddaramaiah and Congress leaders can go before the people and say they will implement the caste census if given another chance. Congress MP Rahul Gandhi says one thing in Delhi and Congress leaders in Karnataka say something else, Kumaraswamy quipped.

Release report soon: BJP MLC

THEY submitted a memorandum, urging him to place the report before the cabinet and implement it. BJP leader N Ravi Kumar, who was the only MLC from that party to be part of the delegation, said the report should be released first. His party's stand will be made known after going through it. During the meeting with the CM, he emphasised the need to give priority for the welfare of the most backward communities among the SCs, STs and OBCs. While the leaders from Backward Classes want the caste census report to be implemented, the Vokkaliga and Lingayat communities have opposed it and have termed it unscientific. Many senior Congress leaders from these dominant communities are against its implementation.

Karnataka BJP president BY Vijayendra greets PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi in Bengaluru on Monday | PIC: X

Vijayendra meets Satish, says nothing political

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

AMID hectic political developments over the possible change of guard and emergence of PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi as the frontrunner for the top post, several top leaders thronged the residence of the latter in Bengaluru on Monday.

Even as leaders like state BJP president BJP BY Vijayendra and former MP DK Suresh claimed that they met Satish in connection with various works related to their respective constituencies, the question on everyone's mind is why they met him at a time when he is projected as a top contender for the CM's post.

> If we have a secret meeting with Kumaraswamy or Yediyurappa, the meeting could be assumed to be something special. I just discussed development issues with the minister
> DK Suresh, ex-MP

Satish's residence in Bengaluru turned into a centre of political activity on Monday as Vijayendra made a surprise visit there and both the leaders held a closed-door discussion. Vijayendra, however, said he did not discuss politics with Satish but appealed to the latter to help shift the toll booths on a state highway in Shikaripura constituency.

Commenting on the political developments, Vijayendra said several Congress leaders, including KPCC chief and DyCM DK Shivakumar, met AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge in New Delhi recently. Vijayendra said that the Congress state government may collapse at any moment given the ongoing political developments.

After his meeting with Satish on Monday, Suresh said there was nothing special about their meeting and it should not be speculated as something unusual. "If we have a secret meeting with JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy or BJP leader BS Yediyurappa, the meeting could be assumed to be something special. I just discussed development issues with the minister," he added.

In spite of several major political developments over the past one week over the possible change in CM, Satish continues to defend Siddaramaiah and said the question of change of guard in the state doesn't arise. He denied all the reports that claimed Siddaramaiah would resign shortly and said it was impossible.

Amid 'scams', reclaiming Cong image, protecting govt party top brass' priority

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

EVEN as the issue of change of guard in Karnataka is making headlines and BJP is demanding the resignation of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah over the MUDA imbroglio, the Congress high command has made it clear that it will not succumb to such pressure tactics.

Informed sources said that All-India Congress Committee (AICC) president Mallikarjun Kharge's priority now is to safeguard the Congress government and the CM and to ensure a smooth transition of power only if such a situation arises.

As part of the strategy, the Congress high command has already moved by raising implementation of the caste census report. Senior party leader BK Hariprasad on Sunday said the government should not be afraid to implement it, adding, "If the government falls, let it be."

The caste census report implementation is likely to help the Congress government and CM get a solid backing of the AHINDA (Kannada acronym for minorities, backward classes, and Dalits) communities. The objective of the Congress high command is to regain the party's image that suffered after the MUDA case surfaced, sources said.

DyCM DK Shivakumar prays at the Arunachaleswarar Temple in Tiruvannamalai on Monday | PIC: X

DKS visits Tiruvannamalai temple

DyCM DK Shivakumar sought the blessings of Lord Arunachaleshwara in Tiruvannamalai in Tamil Nadu on Monday. "I had visited this temple and sought the blessings of Lord Arunachaleshwara before the Assembly results in 2023. I had prayed to the Lord to give me strength to deliver good administration in the state. I am visiting now again to seek his blessings for the welfare of people," he told reporters after offering pooja at the temple.

"There is no question or discussion on change of CM. Siddaramaiah will complete his term. The MUDA case is in the courts, and the investigation is going on as per court orders. Siddaramaiah and the government will come out clean," former MP DK Suresh told reporters after visiting PWD Minister Satish Jarkoholi.

Suresh said the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) cannot arrest Siddaramaiah. "There is no money involved. Moreover, the sites have been returned to MUDA. Lokayukta and the judicial commission set up to probe the case have to file their reports," he added.

But on Sunday, former minister PGR Sindhia suggested to Siddaramaiah to hand over power to DyCM and KPCC chief DK Shivakumar if there was a pact at the high command level when the Congress government was formed last year.

Shivakumar recently said that he has been sharing the state's political developments with Kharge on a daily basis. "Kharge is aware of the developments and is not ready to make any moves unless it benefits the party. Why should he take the risk by removing Siddaramaiah and take the blame for the repercussions," he asked.

Cong to corner Oppn leaders by digging up old cases

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH the BJP and JDS attacking the government and CM Siddaramaiah over the MUDA row, the Ruling Congress has chalked out a plan to dig out the old cases against the Opposition leaders to counter them.

The legal cell of the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) has so far held three rounds of meetings in this regard. The strategy is to snub those who were going aggressive against the CM.

Headed by the chief of the cell and CM's legal adviser AS Ponnanna, they discussed several cases, including the POCSO case against former CM BS Yediyurappa, denotification charges against Leader of Opposition R Ashoka, and Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy. Apart from these cases, allegations related to alleged misuse of land against 20 other strong BJP leaders, including MLC CT Ravi, will also be taken up, a member of the KPCC legal cell told TNIE.

On Monday, in the absence of Ponnanna, the cell discussed several issues, including why the Congress failed to take cases against the Opposition leaders to their logical end, the member added.

Byrathi flew to Mysuru to take crucial files, Snehamayi says in plaint

MYSURU: Social activist Snehamayi Krishna has filed a complaint with the Director General and Inspector General of Police against Minister Byrathi Suresh, alleging political interference and misuse of power in the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA). Krishna stated in his complaint that a search warrant was issued by the Lokayukta on July 26, 2024 to raid MUDA offices and to seize documents related to alleged illegal land acquisition. "However, before the raid could be executed, it is alleged that Sujeet, the former SP in the Mysuru Lokayukta, tipped off Urban Development Minister Byrathi Suresh. The minister reportedly took immediate action, flying to Mysuru in a helicopter and removing crucial documents from the MUDA office before they could be confiscated by Lokayukta officials," he stated in the complaint. The complaint alleged that the documents taken by the minister were subsequently used in a press conference held by CM Siddaramaiah at Vidhana Soudha on the same day. The documents are believed to be connected to illegal land acquisitions facilitated through MUDA, which allegedly benefited influential people, including politicians. He demanded that the communication between Sujeet and Byrathi Suresh, specifically their phone records and tower locations from July 1, 2024, to August 30, 2024, should be examined. The minister's sudden visit to Mysuru on the day of the raid and the files he took have raised suspicions of a cover-up, he alleged. ENS

Reddy's car breaches CM security, cops send notice to MLA

AMIT S UPADHYE
@ Hubballi

THE Koppal police have served a notice to BJP leader and Gangavathi MLA Gali Janardhana Reddy for allegedly violating security protocols during Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's visit to Koppal recently.

The police said that three cars, including that of the MLA, clearly violated the security protocol, while the CM was passing by. Reddy was sitting in the front seat and after his car came on the wrong side, two more cars of his supporters followed him.

The chief minister's convoy was heading towards the Ginigera airstrip from Gangavathi, while Reddy was waiting in the traffic. After some time, Reddy's car was seen climbing the divider and coming in the opposite direction. Despite the police requesting, Reddy and two other car owners decided to defy the security orders. As soon as the three cars started driving in the opposite direction, the chief minister's convoy reached the same spot. The traffic police stopped the three cars and allowed the CM's convoy to pass without delay.

Screengrab showing the car belonging to Janardhana Reddy jumping the median in Gangavathi on Saturday

Notices have been issued to all the three car owners. The police have booked cases under IPC Sections 281 and 279 for rash driving and driving on the wrong side.

Meanwhile, Koppal district in-charge minister Shivaraj S Tangadagi condemned the incident and said that being a former minister, Reddy should have followed the rules. Minister BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan, too, condemned Reddy's act. "The people have seen how he behaved when he was in power. God has given him another chance and he must learn to be humble," Khan said.

Reddy's supporters defended the move, saying the MLA was waiting for over 20 minutes. "In the name of security and zero traffic, police hold the traffic for a long time which needs to be addressed," said a Koppal resident.

Movie 'Sharanara Shakti' sparks outrage, screening held for prominent Lingayats

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

AFTER protests surrounding the controversial book, Vachana Darshana, the heat has now shifted to the upcoming film Sharanara Shakti, set to release on October 18. The historical drama has already stirred up a storm with critics raising their voice against its portrayal of key Lingayat religious figures. The makers of the film describe Sharanara Shakti as a gripping tale set in the 12th century, bringing to life the stories of Basavanna, Channabasavanna and other revered Sharanas. The film promises to shine the spotlight on the Anubhava Mantapa, the sacred Ishtalinga and the martyrdom of Sharanas to showcase their indelible contributions to society and spirituality.

Faced with opposition from Lingayat leaders, including pontiffs and members of the Jagathika Lingayat Mahasabha and Basava groups, a special screening of the movie was arranged at Malleswaram on Monday. Among those attended was SM Jaamdar, a former IAS officer and a prominent figure in the Jagathika Lingayat Mahasabha. After watching the movie, he said, "There are many objectionable issues." He added that contentious aspects of the film will be reviewed in detail in the coming days. The screening had an assembly of Lingayat pontiffs and community leaders -- Siddarama Swamiji from Gadag, Beli Mutt Swamiji, Basava Yogi Swamiji, and a large group of scholars and community leaders, including TR Chandrashekar and Arvind Jatti. As the movie progressed, many were seen making notes on pieces of paper.

Many Lingayat groups, including the Jagathika Lingayat Mahasabha and the many Pro-Basava groups, have opposed the movie and written letters opposing the film's release. Ravi Kumar Biradar, president of the Rashtriya Basava Sena in Vijayapura, led a protest meeting attended a few days ago by nearly 100 people, after watching the trailer and condemned the film's alleged "scandalous" portrayal of Akka Nagamma, the sister of Basavanna, who is revered in the Lingayat faith. "Akka Nagamma is like a mother to us. How can we tolerate her being depicted in such a disgraceful manner? She was a hero who preserved our faith during its darkest times. This portrayal is nothing short of an insult," Biradar told TNIE.

Biradar also claimed that the film wrongly suggests that the Lingayat faith was forcibly imposed on others — a statement he vehemently denies. "This faith has never been forced upon anyone. How can we remain silent when such falsehoods are being spread?"

In the face of growing backlash, movie director Dilip Sharma acknowledged that the Kannada Film Chamber of Commerce has received complaints against the movie.

He said, "There are six to seven complaints and we will address these issues. We will incorporate changes based on the feedback." When asked if the movie would be screened for the media, he replied, "Not yet."

Rusted, unused light poles pose big risk to citizens

Light poles near Balekundri Circle pose a risk to commuters | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Five-metre stretch near Vidhana Soudha has nine poles installed in middle of road divider

RAKSHITH GOWDA @Bengaluru

RUSTED and disused street light poles are leaning, posing serious threat to pedestrians and commuters on the stretch from Police Thimmaiah Junction to Balekundri Junction, just a stone's throw away from Vidhana Soudha. The 500-metre stretch has nine street light poles installed in the middle of the road divider and are no longer being used. They have not been removed despite the installation of new street light poles.

One of these poles near Balekundri Circle is leaning, posing the risk of a fall any time. Another rusted traffic pole just a few metres away presents further hazards for both commuters and pedestrians.

Speaking to TNIE, Nandan, an employee, who uses the road daily to reach Cubbon Park Metro Station, said, "I am seeing this leaning pole for the last six months, but the authorities seem unaware. With the rains we are witnessing, the pole may fall any time," he said, adding that the tangled wires around the pole further poses danger to pedestrians.

Another commuter, Kishore, expressed his frustration while waiting for a signal near Balekundri junction after seeing the leaning pole. "Due to the negligence of the authorities, many lives are at risk in the city. While we are already seeing incidents of trees and branches falling on commuters and pedestrians injuring them, these defunct poles looks like an addition. But, this can be much more dangerous if it falls."

There are many such poles across the city. But this being near Vidhana Soudha, the political power centre, and neglected by authorities shocks me, he added.

When TNIE brought the issue to the notice of BBMP, an electrical engineer with BBMP East division stated that they will look into the issue immediately and resolve it as soon as possible.

QUESTIONING BY SIT

SUSPENDED DySP ARRESTED IN BITCOIN CASE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Special Investigation Team (SIT) of the Criminal Investigation Department (CID), probing the multi-crore Bitcoin scam, arrested Deputy Superintendent of Police (DySP) Sridhar K Pujar. The arrest was made on Monday when the suspended DySP appeared for questioning before the SIT, after the Karnataka High Court recently refused his anticipatory bail in connection with an FIR registered by Cottonpet police in August 2023, based on a complaint by K Ravishankar, present investigating officer of the SIT.

Pujar, 47, who was earlier inspector with Central Crime Branch (CCB), was reportedly charged with tampering electronic devices that were seized from notorious hacker Shriki, an accused in the case, and his associates. The devices were allegedly tampered in the premises of the CCB office. Pujar is the fifth accused arrested so far in the scam. Of the five arrested, four are police officers who had earlier worked with Central Crime Branch (CCB) and were part of the Bitcoin scam probe. The other three officers who were arrested are Prashanth Babu, Lakshmikanthiah and Chandradhar, who are currently out on bail. Another person who was arrested runs a private firm in HSR Layout.

The SIT was formed in 2023 due to the alleged involvement of politicians and police officers in the scam. The main accused, international hacker Srikrishna Ramesh, alias Shriki, and his associates were arrested by CCB sleuths in 2020 for allegedly purchasing narcotics through darknet using Bitcoins. Ever since the SIT was formed, two new FIRs were registered. In August 2023, SIT filed its first complaint at Cottonpet police station. The second FIR was registered by cyber crime police of the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) in January 2024. In both cases, K Ravishankar is the complainant.

Pujar was also accused of attempting to murder an officer of the SIT on February 27 this year, near the Coffee Board signal. The complaint was filed by an assistant sub-inspector, who alleged that Pujar had caused injuries to two SIT officers while trying to evade arrest in the Bitcoin case. After this incident, CID had announced a reward for information on Pujar, who was elusive.

The induction of BRAHMOS Air-Launched Cruise Missile (ALCM) system equipped with Su-30MKI fighter aircraft has enhanced the combat potential of the Indian Air Force with the ability of air fighting within and beyond the visibility range. The air-launched version of the world-class weapon system, BRAHMOS ALCM, has a modified configuration and is lighter than its other variants, though it is equally potent in firepower and devastating capability, with supersonic speed all through the flight. Integrated with the airborne missile launcher along with Su-30MKI fighter platform, BRAHMOS has rendered the missile a multi-platform weapon capability in the air-to-surface mode.

"The induction of BRAHMOS Air-Launched Cruise Missile armed with frontline Su-30MKI fighter aircraft has galvanised India's military potential to an unprecedented level. The missile has empowered the Indian Air Force to penetrate and strike heavily defended targets deep into enemy territory," remarked Shri Atul D Rane, DG (BrahMos), DRDO and CEO & MD of BrahMos Aerospace.

Supersonic Cruise Missile Triad

BRAHMOS supersonic cruise missile system has become the mainstay of the Indian Army's artillery firepower. The Indian Army started inducting the land-attack BRAHMOS version from 2007 onwards and has raised several regiments. Similarly, the Indian Navy has deployed the naval version of the BRAHMOS missile on-board its several surface warfare platforms since 2005 as the 'prime strike weapon'. In its sub-sea launch configuration, the supersonic cruise missile would be a potent increase in the Navy's underwater weapons delivery capability. The Su-30-BRAHMOS combination have strengthened the IAF with additional lethality for attacking targets protected by powerful air defence assets. The successful induction of BRAHMOS in all the three services has made India the first and only country in the world to complete the "supersonic cruise missile triad".

Global Footprint

The system has already penetrated the international arms market as a force multiplier. The emergence of BRAHMOS has not only strengthened India's technological base but also elevated its image in the global arena.

"The landmark BRAHMOS export contract with Republic of the Philippines is a huge leap forward for us as it has paved the way for more such missile orders. With a number of friendly nations showing keen interest in the procurement of the system, BRAHMOS promises to play a key role in redefining the future of India's defence exports," noted Dr. Sanjeev Kumar Joshi, Dy CEO of BrahMos Aerospace.

Indigenisation Efforts

BrahMos has empowered the indigenous defence industry of the country. The Joint Venture possesses a full-fledged design centre, a Missile Industrial Consortium for producing different sub-systems, a world-class integration, and check-out facilities with stringent quality control. The Supersonic Cruise Missile, powered with the untiring efforts and competent leadership of the entire team of BrahMos including the consortium of small and medium public-private industries, has become a fine testimony of 'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' resolve in defence technology arena.

Technological Advancements

BRAHMOS supersonic cruise missile system, a perfect representation of India's growing military might, has carved a distinct place for itself in the Indian Armed Forces. The weapon stands out as the only universal supersonic cruise missile system with the capability of neutralising Land or Sea based targets.

BrahMos Aerospace now aims to take it to the next level by designing and developing even more lethal and powerful variants of the existing weapon.

As India celebrates 92nd Air Force Day, BrahMos Aerospace felicitates the air warriors of the Indian Air Force.

Odisha CM seeks more teeth to tackle Maoists

Asks for 12 co.s of CAPF, chopper for rebel-hit areas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bhubaneswar

ODISHA Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi on Monday requested the Centre to deploy at least 12 companies of central armed police forces (CAPF) for a period of two years in Left-Wing Extremism (LWE) affected areas to prevent infiltration of Naxalite cadres from Chhattisgarh. He also sought a dedicated helicopter to meet the critical requirements of security forces in the conflict zones.

The chief minister congratulated the security forces of Chhattisgarh for achieving a major success three days back by neutralising 31 Maoists. He, however, said there is a reasonable apprehension of possible shifting of the cadres and operations from Chhattisgarh to Odisha following intensified anti-Naxal operations in the neighbouring state. Apprising the centre that the state government has raised thee battalions of Odisha Special Striking Force (OSSF) by inducting ex-servicemen, the chief minister said it is in the process of filling up vacancies in different ranks of the police. "In the current scenario, I request you, not to withdraw the central forces till the induction process is complete. Also, may I request you, to send at least 12 coys of CAPF for a period of two years, to be deployed in affected areas to prevent infiltration and eradicate LWE from Odisha in a time-bound manner," he said.

Emphasising the need for an uninterrupted helicopter service, Majhi said it is a critical requirement for timely movement of troops, maintenance of forward posts and responding to the exigencies in the LWE theatre of conflict.

Murugha seer out on bail, but can't enter C'durga

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chitradurga

THE second additional district judge court, which is conducting trial in the POCSO case filed against Murugha Mutt pontiff Shivamurthy Murugha Sharana, granted him bail on Monday. But the seer is barred from entering Chitradurga district.

The court granted bail to the seer after the examination of witnesses. Shivamurthy Sharana was lodged at the Chitradurga district prison after his arrest on September 1, 2022. The police arrested the seer based on the complaints of sexual misconduct filed by girls who were studying at the mutt. The girls were helped by Mysuru-based NGO 'Odanadi'.

'I hope truth prevails'

Murugha Sharana, who walked out of prison after bail was granted, told media persons, "I am out of jail today only because of the grace of Murugesha. I will go to Shivayoga Ashram in Davanagere. I will speak in detail later. It is time to remain silent now. The legal fight is on and I hope that the truth will prevail. I have already told devotees what I have to tell." Though the Karnataka High Court had initially granted him bail in November 2023, it was challenged in the Supreme Court, which ruled that he be released only after examination of witnesses.

Accidents cause ₹100-cr loss to KSRTC per year

AKNISREE KARTHIK @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) spends a whopping Rs 100 crore towards accidents and other expenses every year. To address these issues, KSRTC is seeking to learn from Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited (HPCL) and Bharat Petroleum Corporation Limited (BPCL), both of which have low accident rates, despite operating over 24, 000 trucks.

Speaking to TNIE, KSRTC MD Anbu Kumar said, "KSRTC operates over 8,000 buses every day and encounters at least one accident a day, some of which are fatal."

Explaining the cost implications of the accidents, Kumar said, "Every year, KSRTC spends Rs 100 crore towards accidents. The costs associated with these accidents include the compensation to the victims, medical expenses and repairs to the damaged buses"

Sharing his recent visit to HPCL and BPCL facilities in Mumbai, Kumar said, "We also have accident prevention mechanisms but we would like to learn from them and implement the same in KSRTC to reduce the number of accidents." In the year 2022-2023, KSRTC recorded 770 accidents of which 231 were fatal, 89 were major, 450 were minor and 1,323 persons were injured. In 2021-2022, there were 494 accidents of which 153 were fatal, 55 were major, 286 were minor accidents and 656 were injured. KSRTC plans to invite experts from the oil corporations to help improve their accident prevention mechanism .

KSRTC to add 20 Airavats this year

The cost of each of the buses is Rs 1.78 crore. Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy, KSRTC Chairman SR Srinivas, KSRTC MD Anbu Kumar and others inspected the model bus at the Volvo bus manufacturing factory near Hoskote, on Monday. The new bus comes with powerful halogen headlights and daytime running lights (DRL), with new plush interiors and Scandinavian-style exteriors, offering visually appealing aesthetics. The aerodynamic design and advanced engine technology delivers superior performance and improved fuel efficiency, said a release from the corporation.

THE commissioner said Ali's family members suspected that blackmailing, threats, harassment and honeytrap by the accused led to his suicide. The accused allegedly extorted over Rs 50 lakh from Ali and have been demanding more money from him since July. Of the money paid to them, Rs 25 lakh was through a cheque. The accused allegedly blackmailed Ali of having an illicit relationship with Rahmat. Prima facie, it appears to be a case of sextortion as the accused allegedly blackmailed Ali, claiming to have his sleaze video. The truth will be revealed after the arrest of the accused, the commissioner said. Around 3am on Sunday, Ali recorded a voice message, naming the accused, including Sattar, responsible for his suicide. Ali sent this message to his family members and friends.

PURGING CASTE-BASED DISCRIMINATION IN STATES' JAIL MANUALS

ALMOST 75 years after the Constitution eliminated caste-based discrimination, the scourge continues to be prevalent in some parts where a two-tumbler system is in vogue and access to temples and cremation sites is denied. State governments are alive to the situation and are actively combating it. What, however, was shockingly sanctified by the executive was the discrimination explicitly written into the jail manuals of as many as 10 states in the country. The problematic portions broadly are on the division of manual labour, segregation of barracks and labelling people as habitual offenders. For example, one manual specified that sweepers shall be chosen from the 'Mehtar or Hari caste' inmates. The Supreme Court last week quashed such offensive provisions as unconstitutional. The court said the right to live with dignity extends even to the incarcerated, and rued that criminal laws from colonial era continue to impact the postcolonial world. Rules that discriminate among individual prisoners directly along caste lines or indirectly by referring to proxies of caste identity are violative of Article 14 (equality before law), the court held.

The bench dwelt at length on the constitutional scheme, fundamental rights, life with dignity, abolition of untouchability and the right against slavery. The Constitution, it pointed out, is not just a legal document, but in India's social structure, it is a quantum leap because it gives dignified identity to all citizens. It cited previous rulings to underscore that dignity is intrinsic to and inseparable from human existence, adding it includes the right to protection against torture, or cruel and degrading treatment. Dignity of human existence is fully realised only when one leads a quality life, the judges said.

While legislations on habitual offenders were enacted to replace the Criminal Tribes Act, in some states, they continue to refer to members belonging to the denotified tribes. A whole community ought not to have been declared a criminal tribe in the past or a habitual offender in the present, the court observed and quashed the provision. It directed the Centre and the state governments to amend all such offensive rules and file a compliance report in three months. It's appalling that oppressive colonial mechanisms that were designed to dehumanise and degrade their subjects continued to exist for this long. Minders of prisons need to wake up and smell the coffee.

BCCI SHOULD AVOID A REPEAT OF KANPUR

DISCUSSIONS during the first three days of the second Test between India and Bangladesh revolved around the Green Park Stadium in Kanpur. At least one whole day's play was lost to a wet outfield. Such things should not happen at a facility that wants to host international matches. The stadium's lack of modern drainage facilities made such a situation inevitable. They had to take a 'super sopper' machine from Lucknow to quickly dry the field after the spell of rain. Spectators faced other troubles, too—the use of langurs to fend off monkeys was one of them. Once a gleaming Test venue considered more prestigious than even Bengaluru, Green Park definitely looks like a fading, sepia-tinged image. Traditions must be preserved, but not at the cost of facilities.

As the facilities started to occupy centre-stage, another point started doing the rounds. Should India follow other cricketing nations like Australia and England and restrict Test matches to five or six venues? Whenever India travels to these countries, they know they will play Tests at these venues. Former captain Virat Kohli openly supported this practice when he was leading the team. In 2019, he had said that the longest format should be hosted only in Kolkata, Mumbai, Chennai, Delhi and Bengaluru, while white-ball cricket could be scheduled by the rotation policy in place. But the Indian cricket board preferred their tested rotation policy for all. There are quite a few venues across the country now and each centre might have to wait for three-four years before hosting a match. For example, Chennai hosted the first Test against Bangladesh after three years and Mumbai will also be hosting one against New Zealand after three years.

Unlike Kohli, current captain Rohit Sharma has said he is happy to see Tests taken to smaller centres like Indore and Dharamsala. BCCI vice-president Rajeev Shukla, who is also a former secretary of the Uttar Pradesh Cricket Association, said after the Kanpur Test that the match was given per the rotation policy and tier-two cities attract larger crowds than the bigger cities. The BCCI wants to distribute revenue and make cricket popular in newer centres. There are pros and cons to the ideas, but two things cannot be compromised—the playing conditions and stadium facilities. Otherwise, it will be a bad advertisement for good Test cricket.

QUICK TAKE

KEEPING MALDIVES CLOSE

MALDIVES' willingness to keep seeking India's help and India's continued support of the cash-strapped nation are good auguries. It assumes importance because President Mohamed Muizzu, in Delhi now on a five-day state visit, was elected on a strong anti-India plank and China has a clear and ever-present intent of keeping the strategically-important archipelago firmly in its sphere of influence. India has approved a currency swap of more than $750 million to extend more help. Money alone would not be enough. China and India already account for most of Maldives' external loans. The other promise—of building infrastructure in an island nation facing devastation from climate change—would be as important.

Neither Israel nor the nations it is fighting can aspire for total victory. Temporary positions of advantage are the most that any side can achieve

WEST ASIA: A YEAR OF WAR WITHOUT END

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)
Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps; Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

SOURAV ROY

THIS Monday was the first anniversary of the Hamas terrorist attack on Israel near the Gaza border on October 7, 2023—a dastardly event that saw 1,200 dead and over 250 innocents taken hostage. Taking Israel, a traditionally alert nation, by complete surprise, that event triggered one of the most intense conflicts of recent times anywhere in the world.

By West Asian norms, intense wars involving Israel have mostly been short, focused and result-driven. The war initiated by the October 7 attack, however, has witnessed an Israeli overkill campaign in Gaza as a response that has recently expanded to other borders and regions. It's one of those inexplicable campaigns where complete asymmetry exists, but final success for Israel is and will remain elusive.

The campaign has progressed only towards greater complexity with little chance of any eventual drawdown, stabilisation or outright victory. It's a strange war, essentially conventional by one side (Israel) but against a non-state entity (Hamas) that does not fight by rules. As a result, Israel has also chosen to fight without international rules and norms of war.

Two factors have driven Israel's selection of its strategy. First, the status of its own leadership has been under severe political test even before the war. Hence, it considers the war a point of relief. An outright victory for Israel may have brought a reprieve for the leadership if an end state had been achieved in which the hostages had all been rescued or released, or Hamas had sued for a ceasefire. Even if no solutions would have emerged or negotiations initiated, a kind of status quo ante would still have been restored.

By Israeli military standards, the revenge for 1,200 deaths could pragmatically have translated into the surgically targeted killing of Hamas fighters and leadership, probably three or four times that number. Sadly, as against that, an overkill strategy has been adopted under Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's leadership.

Israel's selection of 'total victory' as against restoration of 'status quo ante plus' resulted in the pursuance of a doctrine that aims to eliminate the last Hamas terrorist standing without concern for the collateral that ensues. Was this adoption done to overcome the complete failure of military anticipatory measures, intelligence and appreciation of how Hamas would fight if it chose to use the intense option of resisting in the Gaza strip? We have had no answer from any military quarters in Israel or from Western think tanks.

The question any military mind would ask is why Israel failed to impose essential restrictions to prevent the Gaza strip from becoming a zone where effective resistance could be brought to bear through means such as the tunnelling system that must have absorbed tons of concrete and cement, besides wire and other hardware to construct fighting installations and set up communications. With all supply lines under its control, Israel simply displayed an incompetence that its leadership is now trying to dispel through a second mistake of an overkill strategy.

The concept of surgical operations to take out the enemy that uses the civilian population as hostages and human shields was always perceived as a speciality of the Israel Defence Forces (IDF). Was it frustration, dire necessity or simply pressure of reputation that forced the IDF to achieve what it has at the cost of over 40,000 innocent Palestinians dead, mostly women and children? Mind you, the Gaza war has not even ended.

It's as good a time as any to take stock of where the entire war is going after the activation of the northern Israeli border, the neutralisation of a large number of Hamas and Hezbollah leaders (including Ismail Haniyeh and Hassan Nasrullah), targeting of Beirut and other Hezbollah and Lebanese positions to limit or neutralise capability, a limited conventional surface-based advance into Southern Lebanon, and Iran's firing of over 200 advanced missiles mainly on military targets in Israel. Hezbollah and Hamas would realistically have lost much of their capability, especially the ability to refurbish their own capacity to resist, after the targeting of supply lines and creation of a potential 'hot war' situation with Iran.

At this stage, rational predictability is near impossible, but termination of conflict at any of the ends is not in sight. The central conflict situations at this moment are in Southern Lebanon and the realm of a direct confrontation between Iran and Israel if Israel decides to retaliate in kind for the 200 missiles that Iran fired. Israel is fighting on all fronts and may not wish to invite another direct confrontation with Iran.

Neither may Iran, whose leadership probably perceives that calibration is the best strategy and a good face-saver with respect to its relationship with the proxies, Hamas and Hezbollah. Both militarily and economically, Iran does not have the will or the capability to perpetuate the current round.

A do-or-die response, existential in nature, will only be evoked if its nuclear assets are addressed, and that is something Israel and its sponsor US are most focused upon, knowing it's the red line. In the existing window of the period of lame duck President Joe Biden, Israel could well make an attempt, but without US support, this may not be possible. For all his other failings, Joe Biden is unlikely to be the initiator of another serious war in West Asia.

Israel has a second option of targeting Iran's oil industry and leaving it in shambles. That could invite an Iranian response against the oil terminals and infrastructure of some Gulf countries, throwing the entire region into turbulence with a huge impact on Indian and many others' interests. It would of course draw the ire of the world, especially China, and a sharp uptick in international economic challenges. India has probably communicated its serious concerns on all this to Israel.

It would be in Israel's interest to limit its conflict engagements to focus on winnable goals. However, total victory for any side here is the last thing that can be achieved. Temporary positions of advantage are about all that any side can aspire for.

TAXING TRUTHS: DECODING APPROPRIATE GST SHARES

VIDHU SHEKHAR
Assistant Professor of finance, SP Jain Institute of Management & Research

"BUT sir, most of GST is paid by the poor in India." This innocuous comment by a student during a discussion on the state of the Indian economy made me realise the extent to which some data lingers in people's mind.

The source of this claim was a report, 'Survival of the Richest: The India Story', published by the think-tank Oxfam and released at the World Economic Forum. The report claimed 64.3 percent of India's goods and services tax came from the poorest 50 percent of the population, while the wealthiest 10 percent contributed a mere 3-4 percent.

This stark portrayal of an unfair tax system made global headlines, influencing media and policy discussions in India—including as a question raised in parliament. Released in January 2023, the figures are still cited at various places and linger on in people's mind, creating an impression of an unfair taxation system in place.

The realisation led me on a research path to find if GST is really mostly paid by the poorest of India. Turns out, it isn't so.

Fault in Oxfam's stats

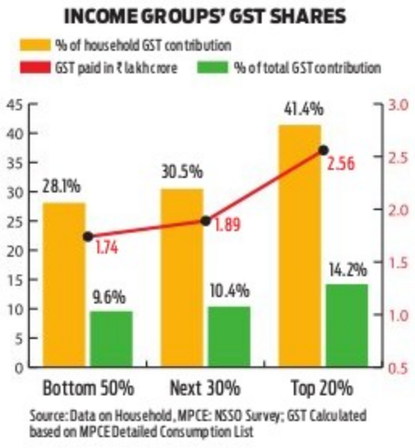
While the Oxfam report makes audacious claims, a critical examination reveals a methodology so flawed it borders on intellectual dishonesty. As an indirect tax, GST is tied to consumption, meaning those who spend more—typically, higher-income groups—pay more in taxes. The report's conclusion contradicts this simple principle.

But the issues discussed in the report are quite beyond logical economic sense. Despite being showcased at a globally recognised platform like the WEF at Davos, the report lacks transparency and rigor in its data presentation. It cites the National Sample Survey Office (NSSO), but provides no further data beyond this reference. The data is limited to just two tables in the appendix, containing only final percentage distributions without any transparent methodology or supporting calculations. The report also admits to selectively using a subset of food and non-food items, but fails to clarify the criterions for their selection—a clear case of cherry-picking data.

Such methodological flaws—in a report that quotes the French revolution and is said to have global ramifications—are not just academic critiques; they have real-world consequences. When flawed data shapes public opinion and influences policies, it risks misdirecting economic resources and undermining informed discourse.

A dive into GST data

To counter Oxfam's claims, we conducted a detailed analysis using rigorous methods to unveil the true distribution of India's GST burden. Leveraging the latest NSSO consumption data from 2022-23, we meticulously applied precise GST rates to over 400 consumed items across income groups.



Source: Data on Household, MPCE: NSSO Survey; GST Calculated based on MPCE Detailed Consumption List

> A 2023 Oxfam report claimed that India's poorest bear the majority of the country's GST burden. This claim has widely influenced debate on the issue. A careful analysis of data shows the report is misleading

Our findings present a picture very different from Oxfam's assertions. Household contributions to GST collections amounted to ₹6.19 lakh crore in 2022-23, representing 34 percent of total GST revenues of ₹18.07 lakh crore. The remaining comes from business-to-business transactions and government consumption. This is in line with their respective GDP shares. Oxfam's claim that the bottom 50 percent contributes 64 percent is not only inaccurate, but also mathematically impossible, as the figure is double the total contribution from all Indian households.

Even if we assume Oxfam calculated shares only on GST contributed by households, their claims still would not hold. The bottom 50 percent contributes just 28 percent of household GST and 9.6 percent of total GST—far less than the asserted 64 percent.

On the other hand, the top 10 percent contribute a substantial 26.63 percent of household GST, rather than the paltry 3-4 percent suggested in Oxfam's report. The wealthiest 20 percent of Indians contribute 41.4 percent of household GST and 14.2 percent of the total GST, highlighting the progressive nature of the tax system.

Data also reveals that the poorest 50 percent face an average effective GST rate of 7.3 percent, while the top 20 percent face a higher average rate of 8.5 percent. The wealthiest pay more not just in rupee terms, but also as a percentage of their spending.

These figures, arrived at after rigorous calculations, completely debunk the Oxfam report's claims. Rather, it presents an encouraging picture of GST as a taxation system. Not only has it simplified the web of tax structure as it used to be in India, it also exhibits a tiered impact that aligns well with consumption capabilities across different income groups.

A progressive tax system

The data shows that GST contributions rise with income, reflecting expected economic behaviour where higher consumption leads to higher taxes. Contrary to Oxfam's claims, the GST does not disproportionately burden the poor but follows a balanced approach where wealthier segments contribute more, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of consumption. This confirms GST's role as a moderately progressive system.

The stark contrast between our findings and Oxfam's highlights the need for rigorous analysis and fact-checking before forming an opinion on such an issue. Misinformation can erode public trust and lead to resource misallocation. Think-tanks and international organisations must uphold the highest standards of transparency by ensuring evidence-based analysis. This is crucial to maintain fairness and public confidence.

'Israeli occupation has led to catastrophe'

Lebanon envoy to India Rabie Narsh blames Tel Aviv for conflict, says it may spiral into a wider regional war

ON the anniversary of the Hamas' attack on Israel, the war has spread from Iran to Lebanon, which is facing missile attacks by Tel Aviv. Lebanon Ambassador to India Rabie Narsh tells Yeshi Seli that the consequences of Israel's attack have been catastrophic. Excerpts:

What is the toll of the recent attacks by Israel?
Lebanon is currently facing Israel's brutal onslaught. Tel Aviv has been unleashing an array of advanced and devastating weaponry, including extremely heavy bombs each weighing 2,000 pounds, as well as internationally banned munitions like white phosphorus. The consequences have been catastrophic—more than 2,100 civilian deaths and 11,000 people wounded. Around 1.2 million people have been displaced. We are facing a severe humanitarian crisis.

How are you countering the attacks? Collateral damage?
Our government with support from international organisations and NGOs swiftly mobilised people and resources to assist the displaced. Temporary shelters have been set up. Schools have been converted into makeshift shelters to house the displaced. In the process, the government is facing severe financial crisis. The Lebanese government is already taking care of approximately 2 million Syrian refugees.

The humanitarian crisis will deepen with unabated attacks by Israel. The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees has appealed to the international community for more aid to Lebanon for managing the overwhelming burden.

Today is the first anniversary of the Hamas attack on Israel. What are your views on the attack?
What happened on October 7 is linked to the establishment of Israeli occupation in Arab lands 75 years ago. The occupation remains the main cause of instability and violence in West Asia. Israel's persistent refusal to adhere to international norms, violations of international law, and denial of the Palestinian people's right to self-determination has made the conflict inevitable. It has gone to a stage where peace seems increasingly out of reach.

The events of October 7 "did not happen in a vacuum", as the UN Secretary-General said. Palestinian fighters targeted armed settlers unlawfully occupying their homes and lands. While we condemn the killing of civilians, we also recognise the rights of any oppressed people to resist. The Palestinian people, especially in Gaza, have endured 18 years of siege. Their resistance is a response to decades of humiliation and systemic injustice.

Where do you see the conflict going?
We find ourselves in this devastating situation because Israel has not been held accountable for its continued encroachment of its neighbours' borders, occupation, war crimes, and violations of international law. Its refusal to abide by UN resolutions, particularly those endorsing the two-state solution and recognising the Palestinian people's right to a sovereign state, has prolonged this conflict. As long as these injustices continue, the situation remains ripe for further escalation.

There is a very real and growing fear that this war could spiral into a wider regional war, threatening not only regional stability, but also global peace and security.

Israel calls Hezbollah a terrorist outfit...
It is important to remember that Israel itself engages in state terrorism, with its Army functioning as the largest terrorist outfit in the world. Therefore, it has no moral or legal authority to label any group as "terrorist".

As for Hezbollah, it is a legitimate Lebanese political party with representation in the government, parliament, and administration. Within the framework of domestic politics, Hezbollah operates according to the established rules of Lebanon's political system. However, it is also a resistance movement, born in 1982 in response to Israel's invasion of Lebanon.

While there may be internal debates within Lebanon regarding Hezbollah's regional role, there is national consensus on the need to defend our land and sovereignty. Hezbollah's role is widely supported as part of Lebanon's broader resistance to occupation.

Which is the biggest issue between Israel and Palestine, Iran, Lebanon?
The biggest issue in West Asia is Israel itself. Israel's character is here for all to see — a state founded on occupation and terrorism, built upon the blood of innocents, and marked by crimes against humanity. More troubling is that it justifies its atrocities through a dangerous and twisted interpretation of religious doctrine.

Israel's occupation of Palestinian lands and its refusal to recognise a sovereign state is the root cause of tension.

What support do you expect from India?
As a peace-loving nation with a strong global presence, India is well-positioned to play a vital role in de-escalating the conflict. It maintains good relations with both Lebanon and Israel, making it a credible mediator. India can use its influence to encourage Netanyahu (Israel's PM) to reconsider his unlawful policies and help bring an end to this senseless war.

What are the steps needed to ensure peace?
All nations must commit to ending occupation, respecting international law, recognising the rights of peoples, including the establishment of a Palestinian state, and engaging in genuine dialogue and diplomacy to resolve conflicts.

Do you think UN can help defuse tension?
The UN plays an important role in promoting peace, but its effectiveness is often limited by interests of powerful nations. Its ability to prevent conflicts is weakened when its resolutions are ignored. An example of the UN's limitations is Israel.

Centre moves in to ease prices, rolls out vans selling tomatoes at ₹65/kg

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

TO control rising tomato prices in the retail market in the festive season, the government on Monday flagged off vans selling the kitchen essential at Rs 65/kg. The government aims to benefit consumers in various locations across the country, providing them with a more affordable option for this essential commodity.

The tomato price in the retail market is shooting beyond the roof and has spoiled the mood of consumers. The retail price of tomatoes has gone beyond Rs 100 per kg in open retail markets in various cities.

Nidhi Khare, secretary, Department of Consumer Affairs, flagged off National Cooperative Consumers' Federation of India Limited (NCCF) vans selling tomatoes at cheaper rates.

Weeks back, the price of tomatoes in the retail market was around Rs 40 which shot up to Rs 60 a week ago and in the past few days, the retail price has crossed ₹100. Experts say the delay in monsoon retreat causing heavy rain in tomato growing areas and disease manifestations has affected the supply of tomatoes.

"The NCCF has initiated a market intervention by directly procuring tomatoes from mandis and selling them at a subsidized rate of Rs.65/kg," said Khare.

"The intervention is to protect consumers from recent increase in tomato prices and prevent windfall gains for intermediaries. NCCF is also continuously supplying onions from the government buffer at Rs 35 per kg to retail consumers in major cities across the country," said.

The senior government official said the retail price of tomatoes has seen an unwarranted increase in recent weeks despite continuous arrival in mandis in good quantities.

"Rains and high humidity due to prolonged monsoon in major producing states such as Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Maharashtra are reported to have led to quality concerns in recent weeks.

The possible role of market intermediaries in the current price rise in this high demand festive season may not be ruled out," said the official.

"By directly engaging with farmers and offering tomatoes at a discounted rate, the organization is playing a crucial role in mitigating the impact of price fluctuations on consumers," said Anupam Mishra, Joint Secretary & MD NCCF.

Directly buying from mandis

The NCCF has initiated a market intervention by directly procuring tomatoes from mandis and selling them at a subsidized rate, said Nidhi Khare, secretary, Department of Consumer Affairs. "The intervention is to protect consumers from recent increase in prices and prevent windfall gains for intermediaries.

Fight against Naxals in final stage: Shah

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday chaired a security and development review meeting of the Chief Ministers of Naxal-affected states and asserted that the fight against Left-Wing-Extremism (LWEs) has entered the final stages and the government is resolved to defeat and eliminate the menace by March 2026.

Addressing the CMs and top officials, Shah assured them of all possible Central assistance in their pursuit to dismantle the ideology-driven violence. He said certain gaps were being highlighted by a few states, including Telangana and Andhra Pradesh.

"I assure you that in a day or two, the Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) will send you a detailed point-wise action plan. I am told that the Union Home Secretary is going to hold a meeting of stakeholders on the proposals sent by the states for road connectivity."

Sources said Andhra Pradesh has sent a proposal for additional funds to construct roads with a length of over 1,455 km and Telangana government is seeking assistance of over Rs 1,000 crore for infrastructure deficit in the affected areas.

The Naxal-affected states include Chhattisgarh, Odisha, Telangana, Maharashtra, Jharkhand, Bihar, Andhra Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh. Chief Ministers of Chhattisgarh, Odisha, Telangana and Maharashtra attended the meeting while other states were represented by senior ministers and officials.

The Home Minister noted that if the development has to reach the last person in the affected areas, the Left ideology-driven violence has to be completely ended. "To fight against LWE, it is necessary to establish rule of law in the Naxal affected areas. For the first time in the last 30 years, the number of people killed due to left ideology-backed extremism has been less than 100," he said.

Incidentally, the crucial meeting was held after security forces killed 31 extremists in the forests of Chhattisgarh in one of the most successful operations in recent times.

Noting that the fight against LWE violence is now in its final stages, Shah said by March 2026, the country "will get freedom from this decades-old problem." He said, "Eighty-five percent cadre strength of LWE is now confined only to Chhattisgarh. Since January, 194 extremists have been killed, 801 of them have given up arms and 742 have surrendered in that state."

The Home Minister said forces are now carrying out offensive rather than defensive operations. As part of this strategy, the National Investigation Agency (NIA) has been choking the funds flowing to Naxal outfits, which has resulted in a shortage of resources for them, he said, adding that multiple long-duration operations ensured that the Naxalites are surrounded, leaving them with no opportunity to escape.

23 years in public office: Modi says will work to realise goal of 'Viksit Bharat'

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi after completing 23 years in public office—from helming a state to the country—has reiterated his commitment to continue to work for the nation till the collective goal of 'Viksit-Bharat" is realized.

In a series of posts on 'X on Monday, the PM said much has been achieved over the years, but there is still more to be done. "A heartfelt gratitude to everyone who has sent their blessings and good wishes as I complete 23 years as the head of a government. It was on October 7, 2001, that I took on the responsibility of serving as the Chief Minister of Gujarat. It was the greatness of my party, BJP, to task a humble Karyakarta like me with the responsibility of heading the state administration," he said in a series of posts on X.

"I assure my fellow Indians that I will keep working tirelessly, with even more vigour in service. I will not rest till our collective goal of a Viksit Bharat is realized," he said.

Going down memory lane, Modi wrote: "When I assumed office as CM, Gujarat was facing numerous challenges -- the 2001 Kutch earthquake, before that a Super Cyclone, a massive drought, and the legacy of many decades of Congress misrule like loot, communalism and casteism. Powered by Jana Shakti, we rebuilt Gujarat and propelled it to new heights of progress, even in a sector like agriculture."

Recalling his days as the CM, he said during his 13-year stay, the state emerged as a shining example of 'Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas', ensuring prosperity for all sections of society. In 2014, the people of India blessed the BJP with a record mandate, thus enabling him to serve as the prime minister, he added.

"This was a historic moment, as it marked the first time in 30 years that a party secured a full majority", he remarked. "Over the past decade, we have been able to address several challenges our nation faces. Over 25 crore people have been freed from the clutches of poverty. India has become the fifth-largest economy and this has particularly helped our MSMEs, start-ups sector and more", he said. New avenues of prosperity have opened up for hard-working farmers, Nari Shakti, Yuva Shakti and the poor as well as the marginalized sections of society, he said.

"India's developmental strides have ensured that the country is being viewed with utmost optimism globally", he claimed.

Guidelines for UGC's PhD excellence citation to boost research rolled out

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

WITH the idea to create a quality research ecosystem in India and to identify high-quality PhD work among young research scholars, the University Grants Commission plans to establish a PhD Excellence citation. The UGC, which took this decision in its meeting on October 3, has made the guidelines public for feedback.

Speaking with this paper, UGC Chairperson Prof M Jagadesh Kumar said, "This initiative is set to recognise outstanding doctoral research across various disciplines. In alignment with the National Education Policy 2020, which emphasises the creation and exploration of new knowledge as vital to India's future, the PhD Excellence Citation is an effort to identify and commend exemplary research work in Indian universities."

UGC will award ten PhD Excellence Citations - two from each discipline - every year on September 5, on Teacher's Day. The need to establish such a citation was felt after the UGC conducted a study on the Ph. Ds awarded from 2011 to 2018. It found a growing trend in students opting to pursue research degrees.

The study found that the total PhD admissions doubled from 77,798 in 2010-11 to 1,61,412 in 2017-18. "The implicit growth rates in these numbers show that the overall PhD admissions increased at the rate of 10 per cent per annum during the period," the guidelines said.

While the maximum research work was done in science (30%), it was followed by engineering and technology (26%). The other topic for PhD research work was in social sciences (12%), Indian Languages (6%), management (6%), Agricultural Sciences (4%), Medical Sciences (5%), Education (5%), Commerce (3%), Foreign Languages (3%).

"Innovation and creating new knowledge are essential to a country's development. Institutions of higher learning play a crucial role in generating new knowledge and innovation. The generation of new knowledge, in turn, largely depends on the quality of doctoral degrees. As envisaged in the National Education Policy 2020, exploring new frontier knowledge is the central doctrine to make India a knowledge superpower," the guidelines said.

Research scholars who have successfully defended their theses in Indian universities, such as state universities, central universities, private universities are eligible to apply.

Largest govt-funded health scheme expanded

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

INDIA has launched the world's largest publicly funded health assurance scheme—the Ayushman Bharat Pradhan Mantri-Jan Arogya Yojana—said Health Minister J P Nadda on Monday. The scheme covers over 120 million families, providing an annual hospitalisation benefit of $6,000/family.

"This expansion will benefit around 45 million families, including 60 million elderly population, by providing them free health insurance coverage. It underscores the government's commitment to ensuring universal and inclusive healthcare for India's growing elderly demographic," said Nadda at the 77th session of the Regional Commission of the World Health Organisation (WHO) Southeast Asia Region, which kicked off here. Nadda said the government has recently expanded the scheme to all citizens aged 70 years and above.

Recognising the growing public health challenges posed by non-communicable diseases (NCDs), he said, "India is implementing the National Programme for Prevention and Control of NCDs since 2010 to address conditions such as hypertension, diabetes and cardiovascular diseases. This initiative has led to the establishment of 753 NCD clinics, 356 Day Care Centers, and 6,238 Community Health Centers to focus on preventive measures at an early stage."

India is poised to share its Digital Public Infrastructure such as Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission, e-Sanjeevani, Integrated Health Information Platform, SAKSHAM, etc. by providing technical and financial support through the Global Initiative on Digital Health—a WHO-managed network, he said. "Following the remarkable success of CoWIN digital platform during the COVID-19 pandemic, India has conceptualized the online digital platform-UWIN, for the Universal Immunization Programme. The portal will register, track, and monitor all vaccination events," Nadda added.

Understanding the role that traditional and complementary medicine plays across Southeast Asian member states, Nadda emphasised that India has backed WHO in creating the Global Traditional Medicine Centre, aimed at promoting these systems.

"India's experience in integrating this system with the conventional system of medicine has led to the provision of holistic healthcare, promoting overall well-being and expanding the range of healthcare services," Nadda said.

The WHO meet was attended by member nations, including Bangladesh, Bhutan, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, Indonesia, the Maldives, Myanmar, Nepal, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and Timor-Leste. The SEARO region has 11 member nations, including India.

WHO SEARO Regional Director Saima Wazed underlined that the best antidote for crises is cooperation and underscored the need for collaborative action to build on the public health gains and overcome new threats in the region.

● In case of hung J&K Assembly, Mehbooba's role will be crucial ● Top Haryana leaders hold parleys in Delhi for CM post

PDP, independents to play key role in govt formation

Unnecessary speculation.... Let me set the record straight. The PDP leadership will take a call on extending support to a secular front once the results are out. This is our official stand
Iltija Mufti

'Pre-result rigging'
Parties term the nomination provision as "pre-result rigging." NC's Farooq Abdullah has said the L-G must desist from it. When a govt comes into power, it is its right to nominate the members, he said.

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

WITH the National Conference-Congress alliance and the BJP being hopeful of a good showing in the polls, the role of Mehbooba Mufti-led PDP and independent candidates assumes significance in case of a hung assembly after the October 8 results for the 90-member Assembly.

The results hold significance as it is first Assembly polls in J&K post Article 370 abrogation and downgrading and bifurcation of erstwhile J&K state into two UTs. The poll result is also a litmus test for BJP's narrative of 'Naya Kashmir.' The exit polls have projected an edge to the NC-Congress alliance over BJP with some exit polls projecting that NC-Congress would touch the magical number of 46 required for a majority in the Assembly to form government. The exit polls have projected 23-35 seats for BJP.

The Congress has started the process of reaching out to some independents whom its hopes are most likely to win. "Congress is in touch with some independents. They are not outsiders but part of our society," said J&K Congress chief Tariq Hamid Karra.

In a scenario, where both NC-Congress alliance and BJP would need support of smaller parties and individuals, the importance of PDP and independent candidates would increase significantly.

The PDP, which is projected to win 5-7 seats, indicated its support for the secular government of NC-Congress. PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti's daughter Iltija Mufti, who is a candidate from Bijbehara seat and media advisor of her mother, in a post on X said her party would take a call on supporting anybody after the results are out.

"Unnecessary speculation.... Let me set the record straight. The PDPs leadership will take a call on extending support to a secular front only once the results are out," Iltija said. Adding to the twist is five members to be nominated to the Assembly by Lt Governor Manoj Sinha.

Parties have termed the nomination provision as "pre-result rigging".

DECIDE

On CM, Hooda & Selja say high command to take call

The opinion of MLAs will be sought, and then the party high command will make the final decision on the chief minister. The leadership's decision will be acceptable to all
Bhupinder Singh Hooda

Majority mark is 46
The exit polls have predicted a victory for the Congress, predicting 50-55 seats for the party and 20-25 seats for the ruling BJP. The Haryana Assembly has 90 seats and the majority mark is 46.

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AMID speculation over the chief ministerial candidate of the party ahead of poll results on Tuesday, Congress leader Bhupinder Singh Hooda said that he is "neither tired nor retired."

The former CM, a frontrunner for the CM post, said on Monday that the final decision of the party high command about the top post would be acceptable to everyone.

Even as the exit polls were out on Saturday, hectic parleys began in the Congress camp to decide the next CM. Hooda reached the capital on Sunday evening and is learnt to have held meetings with the top leadership. The top contenders for the post are Rajya Sabha MP and former Union minister Kumari Selja, former CM Bhupinder Singh Hooda, his son and Lok Sabha MP Deepender Hooda, Rajya Sabha MP and AICC general secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala and state Congress chief and Dalit leader Udai Bhan, a Hooda loyalist.

The exit polls have predicted a victory for the Congress, predicting 50-55 seats for the party and 20-25 seats for the BJP. The Haryana Assembly has 90 seats and the majority mark is 46.

Speaking to the media in the Capital, Hooda said: "The opinion of MLAs will be sought, and then the high command will make the final decision. The decision will be acceptable to all."

Hooda also highlighted governance during his term from 2005 to 2014. He claimed that the law and order deteriorated under the BJP rule, similar to the situation before he became the CM.

"The vote share of Congress increased in all the 10 Lok Sabha seats in Haryana. In all the 90 Assembly seats also, the vote share of Congress went up," said Hooda. He also emphasized his political ambition by saying, "I again say it, neither am I tired nor retired," despite being 77 years old.

His arch-rival Selja, a prominent Dalit face, hasn't minced words and never shied away from projecting herself as the probable CM candidate. Speaking to the media in the capital on Monday, Selja said: "I cannot say anything now. A decision will be announced by the leadership and everyone will accept that," she said.

Sahani appreciates liquor ban in state

Bihar government's prohibition policy got support from unexpected quarters. Former minister and VIP chief Mukesh Sahani appreciated chief minister Nitish Kumar for imposing total ban on sale and consumption of liquor in the state. Sahani, who is part of RJD-led grand alliance, said that prohibition is good and has benefited people belonging to economically weaker sections of the society as money spent on liquor by them was now being spent on their families' welfare. Sahani's remarks came at a time when activist Prashant Kishor promised to lift liquor ban in an hour, if his 'Jan Suraaj Party' was voted to power.

RJD leader says Nitish will switch sides again

Rashtriya Janata Dal leader Bhai Birendra's claim that chief minister Nitish Kumar would return to INDI Alliance before Bihar assembly polls has created a political storm in the state again. Though Nitish has repeatedly said that he would not change sides and would remain with BJP-led NDA, Bhai Birendra, RJD MLA from Maner, said that Nitish's silence on several issues indicated that he was thinking over his past decision to join hands with NDA. The RJD legislator, who is considered close to the Lalu family, said that Nitish is a socialist and he will not remain with 'traitors.'

JD(U) drops demand for Bharat Ratna for Nitish

Janata Dal (United) finally distanced itself from demand to honour Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar with country's highest civilian award—Bharat Ratna. JD(U) leader Manish Kumar Verma said that JD(U) has nothing to do with growing demand of party workers to confer Bharat Ratna to a socialist leader and Bihar CM. Recently posters seeking Bharat Ranta to Nitish were erected outside the official residence of CM and JD(U) office in Patna. JD(U) working president and Rajya Sabha member Sanjay Jha said that he was not aware of such a demand, but it would be 'wholeheartedly' welcomed if Nitish is selected for Bharat Ratna.

ED raids AAP MP in Punjab 'land fraud' case

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

SLEUTHS of the Enforcement Directorate (Jalandhar) on Monday raided the premises of AAP's Rajya Sabha MP Sanjeev Arora and some others, including realtors and investors, as part of a money laundering probe linked to a "land fraud" case.

Sources said the ED team raided Arora's residence in Ludhiana as he is the owner of Ritesh Properties and Industries Ltd (RPIL) and was allotted an industrial plot in Ludhiana a few years ago when Congress was in power in the state. He allegedly breached the allotment conditions by setting up commercial and residential projects. His house in Gurugram is also being searched by the ED under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

Also premises of Hemant Sood of Ludhiana and Chander Aggarwal of Jalandhar, directors of the company, are being raided. Also Pardeep Aggarwal of Royal Industries in Ludhiana is under ED scrutiny and his premises are being raided.

"The ED has conducted raids at 17 locations in Punjab," said an official. Sources said the ED had been investigating Arora's case since the time he was not an MP as the allotment and its violation happened before that.

CBI chargesheet names Sanjoy Roy as accused in rape-murder of doc

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

THE CBI on Monday filed its first chargesheet accusing Sanjay Roy, a civic volunteer, of raping and murdering a junior doctor at RG Kar Medical College and Hospital on August 9.

The 45-page chargesheet was submitted to the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate (ACJM) court in Sealdah.

"Sanjay Roy has been charged with rape and murder. There is no mention of gang-rape. Sanjay Roy is the only accused. He was drunk when he committed the crime," a source quoting the CBI chargesheet said. The chargesheet mentioned that there were 16 external and nine internal injuries on the body.

On August 9, the body of the doctor was found inside the seminar hall of the hospital, where she had gone to take rest during her night shift.

According to the chargesheet, CCTV footage showed Roy entering the seminar hall around 4 am on August 9 and leaving the place after 30 minutes.

According to sources, the chagresheet alleged Roy had tried to mislead investigators.

The CBI on September 14 arrested Sandip Ghosh, the former principal of RG Kar Medical, and Abhijit Mondol, the then officer in-charge of Tala police station, for alleged tampering of evidence and trying to hush up the case.

Meanwhile, agitating junior doctors continued their fast-unto-death for the third consecutive day on Monday, demanding justice for the rape and murder of a trainee medic and workplace safety even as the state government remained silent to address their issues.

"If the state government does not meet our 10-point demand, we'll intensify our agitation," said a junior doctor.

The doctors also announced organising a rally from College Square to Dharmatala at around 4.30 pm on Tuesday to press for their demands. "Tomorrow we will also be holding a symbolic hunger strike at all medical colleges and hospitals across the state. Representatives of various doctors' associations will take part in it," another junior doctor said.

Formula cracked as MahaYuti, MVA arrive at Maha seat deal

UPCOMING ELECTION

SUDHIR SURRYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AFTER a series of brainstorming sessions, the main political coalitions in Maharashtra – the MahaYuti and Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) – have agreed on seat-sharing arrangements for the Assembly polls which are likely soon. A final announcement is expected soon.

According to sources in Mahayuti, the BJP has decided to contest between 150 and 160 seats in the 288-member Assembly, while CM Eknath Shinde's Shiv Sena will get 80 to 90 seats, and his deputy Ajit Pawar's NCP 40 to 50 seats.

Of the 150 seats, the BJP targets at least 80 to emerge as the single largest party, while its current tally is 105 in the Assembly. "If Shinde manages 50 seats and NCP bags even 50% of its contested seats, which is 20, MahaYuti will continue to rule the state. Once we are close to forming the govt, the independents will extend their support," said a senior BJP leader.

On the other hand, in Maha Vikas Aghadi, the Congress wants to play the big brother by contesting 110 to 120 seats and Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena (UBT) 80 to 90 seats, while Sharad Pawar-led NCP (SP) will contest between 80 and 90 seats. The remaining seats will get divided between the left and alliance partners of the MVA.

"We are confident that the Congress will bounce back by winning as many seats as it did in the Lok Sabha polls. In the general elections, Congress's tally went from one seat in 2019 to 13 plus one independent, totalling 14 seats. The grand old party aims for 75 to 80 seats in state assembly, while NCP(SP) expects to bag 50 to 60 seats. In the Lok Sabha elections, its strike rate was 80%, which it wants to continue. After a setback in the Lok Sabha elections, Uddhav Thackeray's party wants to bounce back with high numbers to play a key role in government formations and get the chief minister post," said a source in MVA.

In his recent meeting in Mumbai, Union Minister Amit Shah met CM Eknath Shinde and his deputy where the 150:85:53 seat-sharing formula was discussed with a broader perspective. "In the meeting, it was also decided that the chief ministerial face will decided post election result," said a senior BJP leader.

The seat-sharing has been one of the alliances' trickiest aspects, as the parties compete to contest as many seats as possible, which can sometimes lead to unsavory situations.

Tejashwi took away ACs, furniture while vacating bungalow: Minister's aide

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THE NDA on Monday accused former Bihar deputy CM Tejashwi Prasad Yadav of replacing new air conditioners with old ones and taking away sofa, water taps and a basin while vacating his previous official bungalow at 5 Deshratna Marg in Patna. Tejashwi vacated the residence two days ago.

The allegations against the RJD leader were made by the personal secretary to present deputy chief minister Samrat Choudhary and also by BJP media in-charge Danish Iqbal.

Iqbal alleged that Tejashwi took away not just the sofa and other furniture items but also air conditioners, light fixtures and even the mat from a badminton court before vacating his official bungalow. "It only reflects Yadav's mentality and bungling," he said.

"We are not just making accusations. We have evidence on camera. Tejshwi should answer. It is reminiscent of Akhilesh Yadav's incident in Uttar Pradesh," he said.

Reacting sharply to the allegations, RJD leader and spokesperson Chitranjan Gagan said that the charges were baseless as the BJP was perturbed over fear of losing assembly elections in Haryana and also disturbed over a Delhi court granting bail to Lalu Prasad and his family members in the alleged land-for-jobs scam.

JD(U) MLC Neeraj Kumar said, "If the allegations are true, it is a matter of serious concern over the misuse of government property funded by taxpayer's money."

Will act against derogatory remarks on deities & saints of all faiths: Yogi

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

If any person tampers with faith, makes derogatory remarks against the faith of great men, deities and sect, then he will be brought under the purview of law and punished rigorously
Yogi Adityanath, Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister

A day after the controversial remarks of priest Yati Narsinghanand's against Prophet Mohammad, Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Monday said that derogatory remarks against saints and priests of any religion or faith were unacceptable and people responsible for that would be dealt with an iron fist.

The CM was reviewing law and order with the chief secretary, DGP, additional chief secretary and other officials ahead of the festival season.

He said that derogatory remarks against deities, great men, or saints belonging to any caste, or faith were unacceptable. Any attempt to tamper with faith would be met with strict legal action and punishment. Yogi directed the officials to initiate action against those who make objectionable remarks against leaders, seers, saints of any religion.

Yogi said: "If any person tampers with faith, makes derogatory remarks against the faith of great men, deities, sect, then he will be brought under the purview of law and punished rigorously. People of all sects, religions will have to respect each other."

"Every citizen should have a sense of gratitude towards great figures, but this cannot be compulsorily imposed on anyone," he added.

The CM also reminded people that "anarchy, vandalism or arson in the name of protest will not be tolerated" and whoever would dare to do that would will have to pay the price for it".

Yati Narsinghanand, a Ghaziabad-based priest of Dasna temple, recently sparked a row after he made objectionable comments against Prophet Mohammad. Protests had erupted in western UP and Maharashtra over the remarks of Narsinghanand.

Another drug haul as 12 kg cocaine worth ₹120 cr seized from Kutch creek

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

COCAINE worth ₹120 crore has been seized from a creek near Gandhidham town in Kutch district of Gujarat, police said on Monday. The authorities recovered 12 kg of the contraband in ten unclaimed packets during the operation.

According to Kutch-East division Superintendent of Police Sagar Bagmar, initial investigation suggests that smugglers may have hidden the drugs near the creek to avoid capture. This is the third major narcotics seizure from the same area within a year.

Gujarat, which is home to the country's longest coastline stretching 1,600 km, has been experiencing a troubling trend of drug-laden packets washing up along its shores, particularly in the Kutch district. Over the past few years, unclaimed drug consignments have been routinely recovered by security agencies during maritime patrols.

In the latest incident, 12 kg of drugs were discovered in an unclaimed state near Khari Rohar in Gandhidham, raising serious concerns once again about the region's vulnerability to drug smuggling operations.

Kutch-East division Superintendent of Police Sagar Bagmar briefed local media, stating, "Based on specific intelligence received last night, Gandhidham B division police swiftly acted and reached the inaccessible coastal area near Khari Rohar. There, they successfully seized 12 kg of drugs."

He further added, "The estimated value of the recovered drugs stands at ₹120 crore. The police have initiated sending samples of the seized packets for further verification."

Israel marks first anniversary of Hamas attack by lighting candles

TEL AVIV

FAMILIES lit candles and observed a moment of silence at a memorial service in southern Israel to mark the first anniversary of Hamas October 7 attacks on Monday, as the sounds of helicopters and artillery fire echoed from nearby Gaza. At the Nova rave site, President Isaac Herzog began the day with a moment of silence at 6.29 am – the minute the attack began with thousands of rockets fired from Gaza to provide air cover to militants storming across the border a year ago.

"October 7, 2023, is a day that should be remembered in infamy, when thousands of cruel terrorists broke into our homes, violated our families, burned, chopped, raped and hijacked and abducted our citizens, our brothers and sisters," said the president. "This is a scar on humanity." Families wearing T-shirts with the faces of the missing embraced and others took pictures as the trance song that played at the rave during the moment of the attack blared in homage to the music festival.

People cry during a ceremony at the site of the Nova music festival on the first anniversary of the Hamas attack in southern Israel on Monday. Hundreds of revelers who had come to the festival last year this day were killed and abducted by Hamas and taken into Gaza | AP

In Jerusalem, demonstrators protested near Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's residence where they demanded a ceasefire and called for the return of the hostages still held captive in Gaza. Protesters waved signs with pictures of the hostages saying "Bring them home now". Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said that Israel was fighting a "war of resurrection" and would continue until achieving its goals. "This is the war of our existence — the 'war of resurrection'. This is what I would like to officially call the war," Netanyahu said during a Cabinet meeting.

His comment provoked a response from a group representing the families of the hostages held in Gaza, who said they wished to "remind the prime minister that there is and will be no resurrection without the return of all the hostages." AFP/AP

US DUO WIN MEDICINE NOBEL FOR GENE WORK

STOCKHOLM

US scientists Victor Ambros and Gary Ruvkun won the Nobel Prize in Medicine on Monday for their discovery of microRNA and its role in how genes are regulated, solving a decades-old mystery, the Nobel Assembly at Sweden's Karolinska Institute said.

If gene regulation goes awry, it can lead to serious diseases such as cancer, diabetes, or autoimmune illnesses. "Their groundbreaking discovery revealed a completely new principle of gene regulation that turned out to be essential for multicellular organisms, including humans," the jury said. Ruvkun said he was shocked to win the prestigious prize. "It's quite a sea change," the 72-year-old professor at Harvard Medical School said after receiving the news in a call from the prize committee on Monday.

"There's already been TV crews and photographers, and 300 email messages from friends!" he said, as his dog barked at the front door with more reporters arriving. Ruvkun shared he and Ambros are "buddies" and had a congratulatory video call that morning. AFP

Safari Retreats case: Govt mulls review plea

Law panel evaluating whether govt should pursue a review of Supreme Court order regarding ITC on construction costs

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

THE government is considering filing a review petition against the Supreme Court's verdict with regard to Safari Retreats that allows commercial real estate companies to claim input tax credit (ITC) on construction costs for their rental buildings. Sources familiar with the matter indicate this ruling could impact government revenue, resulting in a shortfall of nearly ₹5,000 crore.

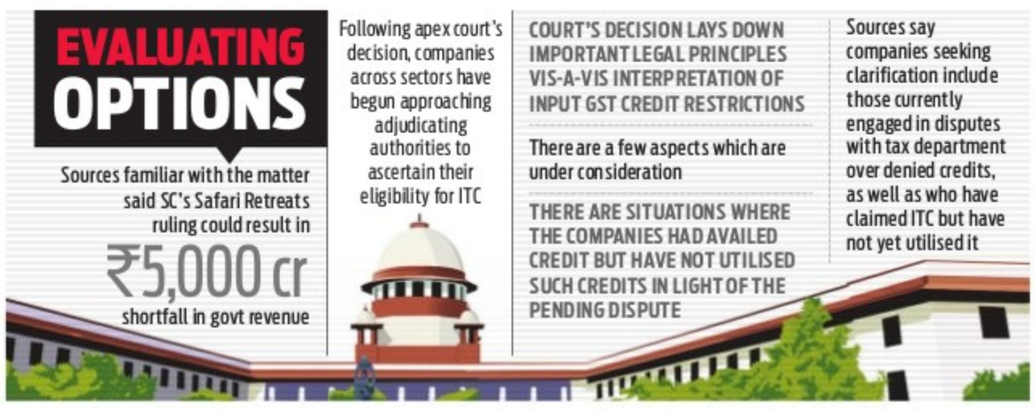
In the wake of the apex court's decision, companies across sectors have begun approaching adjudicating authorities to ascertain their eligibility for ITC. "The law committee has been tasked with evaluating whether the government should pursue a review of the Supreme Court's order," a top government official revealed.

Even petitioners may opt for review of certain aspects of the judgement. "There are a few aspects which are under consideration and we may file review petition for reconsideration for limited aspect," said Abhishek A Rastogi, founder of Rastogi Chambers, who represented several petitioners.

"There are situations where the companies had availed credit but have not utilised such credits in light of the pending dispute. The adjudicating authorities will have to finalise the approach based on the principles framed by the court", added Rastogi.

As per Sudipta Bhattacharjee, Partner, Khaitan & Co, this decision lays down important legal principles vis-a-vis interpretation of input GST credit restrictions under section 17(5)(d). While these legal principles have been articulated in the context of a commercial real estate business (since that was the lead matter before SC), they can be applied in a wider sphere too - for example, by concessionaires operating port, airport or similar projects under a PPP model or LNG regasification terminals or by manufacturing entities who have incurred/plan to incur major input side capital expenditure (and GST). Sources say companies seeking clarification include those currently engaged in disputes with tax department over denied credits, as well as who have claimed ITC but have not yet utilised it. Should the government decide against filing a review, adjudicating authorities will assess these companies' eligibility for ITC on construction costs based on essentiality and functionality tests.

"...The ruling challenges existing GST restrictions, potentially leading to a surge in ITC claims that were previously blocked. This move could significantly reduce the government's tax collection and may force a rethink on GST policies to safeguard revenue interests," said Rajat Mohan, Executive Director, MOORE Singhi.



Reserve Bank unlikely to reduce rates, policy stance

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

THE reconstituted Monetary Policy Committee's (MPC) first meeting that began here on Monday comes in fraught times after the escalation of conflict in the Middle-East has sent crude prices skyward, completely diminishing any chance of an interest rate cut.

A rate cut possibility was seen likely after the US Fed stumped the markets with a historic 50 bps reduction in interest rates earlier last month.

Even a change in the monetary policy stance is bleak. If the MPC leaves the rates changed at 6.5%, it will be for the tenth time the panel has opted for status quo. The Reserve Bank will announce the policy decision on October 9.

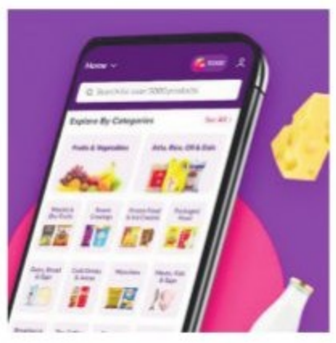
On October 1, the government reconstituted MPC for the second time, appointing Prof Ram Singh, a director with the Delhi School of Economics; economist Saugata Bhattacharya; and Dr Nagesh Kumar, the chief executive at the Institute for Studies in Industrial Development, New Delhi, as the external members, replacing Ashima Goyal, Shashank Bhide and Jayanth Varma.

All the outgoing three external members — Goyal, Bhide and Varma — were continuously voting for rate cuts in the past four MPC meetings, while three ex-officio members from the RBI — governor Shaktikanta Das and the deputy governor Michael Patra and Rajiv Ranjan, an executive director— were voting against any such moves citing the still sticky inflation led by spiraling food prices. While the September 17 historic rate cut by the US Fed spawned a flicker of hope back home that the RBI would at least tone down its strident policy stance, what happened in Israel last Tuesday night has completely put that little flicker out given the scale of escalation in the world's most volatile region that's also is the fuel capital of the world.

Immediately the way crude prices jumped over 5 percent hand since then risen by over $9 a barrel and is headed to $80 a barrel range now. And many analysts are expecting the oil to touch $90 soon.

New MPC panel to decide on policy rates

On Oct 1, govt reconstituted MPC for second time, appointing Prof Ram Singh, director with the Delhi School of Economics; economist Saugata Bhattacharya; and Dr Nagesh Kumar, chief executive at the Institute for Studies in Industrial Development, New Delhi, as external members, replacing Ashima Goyal, Shashank Bhide, Jayanth Varma.



Zepto to shift HQ to B'luru to begin ops from November 11

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

QUICK commerce start-up Zepto will move its headquarters from Mumbai to Total Mall on Sarjapur Road, Bengaluru, and will begin operations from November 11.

Sources told this newspaper that about 2,000 employees will work from this new headquarters beginning November 11. "There are already close to 800 employees working from Bengaluru, and all these employees will move to this bigger facility. Another 600 employees from Mumbai will shift to the new office," added sources.

In the past few months, Zepto has been recruiting many people (about 600). All these employees will also start working from the new place.

The ground floor of the new facility will house a dark store (a distribution centre for online shopping). Leading quick commerce start-ups have been expanding their dark stores in recent months due to increasing demand for 10-15 minutes delivery.

Recently, Zomato-owned Blinkit said it aims to increase its dark stores to 2,000 by 2026. On-demand convenience platform Swiggy's quick commerce arm Instamart, which is planning to increase its service to more cities, plans to expand its dark store network across existing and new cities.

Earlier in August, TNIE reported that Zepto is relocating its headquarters to Bengaluru from Mumbai and that it will consolidate its operations.

'Israel-Iran conflict will not lead to oil shortage'

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE ongoing conflict between Israel and Iran will not lead to any oil shortage in the world, as there is more reserves available globally than there is consumption, said the Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri on Monday. Puri, speaking to the press, also mentioned that if any parties restrict availability, there are new suppliers in the market. For India, the minister noted that there are enough options to purchase from other countries.

"Today, there is more oil available in the world than there is consumption. If some parties hold back on availability, there are new suppliers on the market. In the short to medium term, I don't foresee any shortage of oil globally. Currently, India is sourcing oil from 39 suppliers, up from 27. There is enough oil available, and we have sufficient choices to exercise. We can switch suppliers," said the minister.

Crude oil prices in the international market increased sharply following a missile attack by Iran on Israel, raising investor concerns over potential retaliation by Israel. Brent crude futures, which had been trading around $70 a barrel for the past three weeks, rose to $79.52 a barrel on Monday, while West Texas Intermediate also saw an increase, trading at $75.99 a barrel at 5:48 PM IST (Indian Standard Time).

The minister acknowledged that if tensions escalate, there could be a rise in crude prices. However, Puri maintained that India is monitoring the situation and is confident in its ability to navigate it as it has in the past.

"We are watching the situation very closely. Energy availability can get affected if tensions escalate. I am very confident that we will be able to navigate the situation, as we have done so far," the minister added. Regarding potential price cuts for petrol and diesel by oil marketing companies (OMCs) in the domestic market, the minister indicated that OMCs will determine the prices of petrol and diesel in the country. The last revision in fuel prices took place in March, with a ₹2 per litre cut for both petrol and diesel.

Puri says country monitoring the situation

The minister acknowledged that if tensions escalate, there could be an increase in crude prices. However, Puri maintained that India is monitoring the situation and is confident in its ability to navigate it as it has in the past

Advisory issued for airlines using Boeing 737 aircraft

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has issued safety advisory to domestic carriers operating Boeing 737 aircraft regarding potential risks with the rudder control system. The advisory directs airlines to inform their flight crews about the risk of a jammed or restricted rudder control system and implement necessary mitigations.

"Appropriate measures must be communicated to help crews identify and manage such situations," said DGCA. Airlines have also been instructed to conduct a risk assessment for their Boeing 737 fleets and address the rudder control issue. The advisory mandates the suspension of Category III B operations, which include low-visibility landings and autoland procedures, until further notice. The DGCA has asked airlines to hold discussions about potential rudder system issues a part of crew training. The issue will be included in Instrument rating/proficiency checks (IR/PPC) and pre-simulator briefings, where crews will practice handling scenarios involving rudder malfunctions.

"Operators have been instructed to include specific exercises in recurrent training and IR/PPC that simulate scenarios involving a jammed or restricted rudder control system, including rollout procedures. Appropriate flight crew responses and mitigations should be practised during these exercises." The advisory comes after the US National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) raised concerns over Boeing 737 planes fitted with Collins Aerospace SVO-730 Rudder Rollout Guidance Actuators.

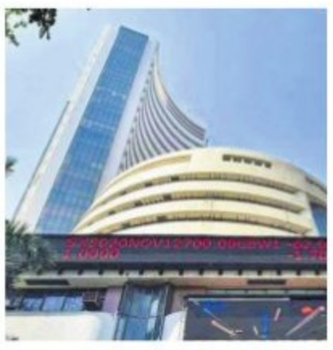
Mkt extends losing streak for 6th straight session

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

DOMESTIC equity market is showing no signs of a bounce back as the benchmark indices– NSE Nifty50 and BSE Sensex – fell sharply again on Monday, logging their sixth straight session of a decline. This is also the longest losing streak for the benchmarks since October 2023.

Even after opening the Monday session with decent gains, the Sensex crashed up to 962 points or 1.17% to 80,726.06 intraday, while Nifty50 fell 244 points or 0.97% at 24,770. At close, Sensex settled 638 points or 0.78% lower at 81,050, Nifty50 finished around 218 points or 0.87% lower to close at 24,795.

The selling pressure was much more intense in the broader market with the BSE SmallCap and MidCap index crashing up to 4% intraday. Investors lost a whopping Rs 9 crore on Monday as the market cap of all the firms listed on the BSE came down to Rs 452 lakh crore. It was at Rs 461 lakh crore at the end of Friday's trading session. India's equity market is falling despite Asian peers putting up a strong show and the mother US market holding its forte amidst rising tension in the Middle-East between Israel and Iran.



Foreign institutional investors (FIIs) fleeing to China from India is believed to be the biggest reason for this correction which has pulled down the Nifty and the Sensex by more than 5% in just two weeks. FIIs sold shares worth ₹8,283 crore on Monday after offloading more than Rs 40,000 crore last week.

Adding to this, exit polls predicting defeat for the ruling party – BJP - in two assembly elections have hampered investors' sentiments.

"A combination of expensive valuations and foreign fund outflows have been driving investors to cut their exposure in Indian stocks, with banking, metals, telecom, oil & gas bearing the maximum brunt despite optimism across other Asian indices. Even the exit poll outcome of the two states are not in favour of the ruling government at the center, which has further dampened the investors' sentiment," said Prashanth Tapse, Senior VP (Research), Mehta Equities.

Vaishali Parekh, Vice President - Technical Research, PL Capital Group - Prabhudas Lilladher - said that the Nifty has lost almost 1500 points from the peak zone of 26277 level and has slipped below the important 50EMA zone of 25000 levels to weaken the bias expecting for further slide. "With the geopolitical tensions hovering around, the index is precariously placed with next important support level visible near the 100 period MA at 24300 level and further, has the major support positioned near the crucial 200 period MA at 23200 levels," added Parekh.

Sanath named full-time head coach of SL

Former captain Sanath Jayasuriya was on Monday appointed as full-time head coach of the Sri Lankan cricket team until the end of the 2026 T20 World Cup. The former opener was Sri Lanka's interim coach since early July, and after he impressed in the role against India and England, Sri Lanka Cricket decided to hand him full-time responsibility.

Reddy 2.0 roars at big stage

After falling off the radar in 2020, Arundhati found her confidence to make a comeback

ARUNDHATI Reddy was always supposed to be the superstar. One of her nicknames, just when she started bowling fast as a 12-year-old, was- Choti Jhulu.

When the 15,935-strong crowd at the Dubai International Stadium cheered their hearts out for the Hyderabad pacer, every time she took her mark, it wasn't hard to see why. However, the stop-and-start journey that took Reddy from her hometown to Dubai was certainly not smooth- unlike her bowling action. Former India A and Hyderabad all-rounder Ananya Upendran would know. "I know Arundhati Reddy because we have been teammates since 2009," Upendran told this daily. "We essentially grew up together. She came onto the scene, five years after I started playing. I started bowling fast like all kids who want to bowl fast, I think, it was very similar to her. Except she was taller and lankier, which made her a good athlete. That's how it started."

Despite having a gap of five years between them, Upendran remembers watching the youngster come up the ranks in a ride that started on Reddy's U19 debut. "I remember her U19 debut clearly and more for her batting than bowling. We were playing against Andhra in Hyderabad. We were 100 and something for six with 20 odd overs left and then she walked in very nervously. Dropped her bat a couple of times before she reached the pitch but ended up scoring some 25 runs and helped put some 60-odd runs in a partnership to get us to 180. Eventually, that was the total that we defended. Her bowling wasn't the standout as such but it was a start of what was to come because she bowled ten overs and gave away some 20-22 runs. She didn't bowl with the new ball at the start of her career. She was a holding bowler for us who was just used to bowling extremely accurately. We happened to win that game, I think, because of her batting contribution. That stood out for me," Upendran's memory box opened up.

> With Arundhati, over the last few years, instead of proving people wrong, it's about proving to herself. While she still has a point to prove, the person she has to prove it to has changed

Ind vs NZ in Ahmedabad

The three ODIs between New Zealand & India women, set to happen in last week of October, will be played in Ahmedabad. The series was supposed to happen last year, but got postponed

Even though her senior teammate remembers Reddy for her batting on her U19 debut, she thinks "She always had the attributes to be a fast bowler. She was tall, athletic, and had a really solid action. She was very accurate. She wanted to bowl fast, so she would run and hit the wicket hard. One of the names Purnima Rau gave her when she came into the setup was 'Choti Jhulu' and the expectations were that she would become like Jhulan Goswami. She had short hair and used to tie a hairband. She thrived on that nickname because she wanted to be Jhulu di."

Reddy proved that throughout her domestic career and when the time came to make her debut for the national side in the tour of Sri Lanka in 2018, she was ready. After being on the side from that series till the 2020 T20 World Cup, where India came so close to bagging the trophy for the first time, Reddy struggled to find a place in the national side and eventually fell off the radar. For a player, who was built up to the highest level, this was a hard fall to take.

Unfortunately, it affected Reddy in many ways. "When you are constantly feeding the 12-13-year-old that you are the next big thing, as confidence building all these things are, it puts so much pressure on young players. And because you are coming with all these expectations, people expect you to perform like a finished product. Without realising that you are a high-potential athlete, you have to develop into a quality performer. High potential doesn't necessarily include being ready for performance. When she got into any setup, because she was naturally gifted, people expected her to play at the international level, even when she was just one or two years into her international career. I think there is a lot of pressure she dealt with right from the start of her career. When you are not able to convert that potential into performance it feels even worse because people then say, well this is a waste of talent and what not," says Upendran who has watched Reddy's struggles from close quarters.

Over the years, Reddy did find a way to come back again. "With Arundhati, over the last few years, instead of proving people wrong, it's about proving to herself that she is capable of. While she still has a point to prove, the person she has to prove it to has changed. It is not always an external force, but she has found a way to internalise it," Reddy's former teammate Upendran explains.

On Sunday, Reddy kept smiling throughout the match presentation and press conference after the match. Even when she was asked about the send off she gave to opposition batter Nida Dar, and she had a good reason for it. As Upendran said, proving the point has not really changed for Reddy, it's who she proves it to, that person has changed. Maybe this is just another pit stop in the journey towards that peak everyone knew she would eventually reach.

Trans-Tasman rivalry resumes

IN THE GROUP OF DEATH, AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND WILL FACE EACH OTHER IN SHARJAH CRICKET STADIUM TODAY. A LOOK...

AUSTRALIA'S FIELDING LAPSES & EXTRAS

While New Zealand were relatively clinical in their tournament opener against India, Australia continued to be hapless in that department. Their pace bowler Darcie Brown could not find her rhythm and ended up giving away extras and bowled only one over against Sri Lanka. Australia would want to take care of those issues as early as possible.

Reel cricket: Fan edits garner attraction for women's game

KALYANI MANGALE @ Dubai

WHAT is storytelling? It can be written words, songs, or for the modern social media savvy generation, it can even be an Instagram reel. With the exponential growth of the women's game in the last few years, social media has seen more bad days than good ones in terms of positive conversations, but there are a few who are making use of it to tell stories of athletes.

Pratiksha from Karnataka is one of them, who runs an Instagram account that celebrates women's cricket. "I have always been interested in cricket. I used to watch men's cricket because I honestly didn't know that women's cricket existed," Pratiksha, a college student, told this daily. "I used to see some stuff about women's cricket from here and there, but I thought very few were watching the game and it is not getting recognised as such. With the Women's Premier League, I tried to search cricket pages dedicated to the women's game, and I could only find a few. I wanted to start it last year, but I couldn't because of my exams. On January 19 this year, I officially started it just for the love of it," she added.

Like many fans who started watching the game, Pratiksha first opted to make reels on her favourite player, Australia's Ellyse Perry, without expecting any views from it. "When I saw Ellyse Perry in the WPL, I wanted to know more about her. Then I found out about her double hundred in the Test against England. I love her bowling action. Then I thought I would start reels with her. Then I showed it to my friends, they liked it so I started posting it. When I posted it for the first time, it got some 2000-3000 views, but after WPL the reach went past one million," she says, adding that it is one of the most watched reels on her account as of today. However, after making reels on some of the well-known names, something shifted. Her followers kept asking Pratiksha to make reels on some other players and she obliged. "Initially I thought I would end up making reels on the most famous players like Perry, and Smriti Mandhana, but then my followers kept asking me about reels on different people in the comments. After looking at recommendations like that of Lauren Bell, Jemimah Rodrigues, and Chamari Athapaththu; I started learning more about these players. I went back and watched their old highlights and it inspired me to learn more about the history of the women's game."

While making reels for her followers she kept learning more and more about those players, which, she believes, led to more awareness. "When I started doing reels, I figured out that there is not a lot of awareness about some of the best cricketers in the world outside of a few names. Take Natalie Sciver-Brunt for example. Not many people outside of core women's cricket fans knew about her achievements. WPL made her famous, I believe. I wanted to introduce many such great cricketers to the Indian audience so that they can learn about their achievements. Even if five people get that knowledge, it's big for me."

While Pratiksha is very mindful about the songs she chooses for the players, there is a reason behind it. "Finding the perfect song can be hard because my edits are not that fancy. I am not objectifying their beauty. I just see their talent and I want to highlight that. It can be difficult to choose songs. For me, the meaning of the songs I am using in the reel is equally important. It takes time, but I continue to follow that process.

"My followers, I think, are different. So many of them have told me that they started following the game after watching my reels. I feel great when I get that kind of message. Recently, I did an Instagram question session and the questions were so mature that pushed me to do my work even better. Sometimes, I feel I cannot be consistent but they keep me going," she signed off.

England win

England put up an all-round show to outplay South Africa by seven wickets for their second successive win in the Women's T20 World Cup. England's four-pronged spin attack led by Sophie Ecclestone (2/15) strangulated South Africa in the death overs to restrict them to 124/6 after they opted to bat on a tricky wicket. In reply, England lost two wickets inside nine overs, but thereafter opener Danni Wyatt-Hodge (43 off 43) and Nat Sciver-Brunt (48 not out from 36b; 6x4) took complete control of the chase, romping home with four balls to spare.

INDIA will play against Togo in the Davis Cup World Group I Play-offs to be held between January 31 and February 2 next year, according to the draw conducted by the International Tennis Federation (ITF) here on Monday.

The draw, which includes both World Group I and II play-offs, will see 52 nations compete in 26 home-and-away ties around the globe from either January 31-February 1 or February 1-2. World Group I play-offs will feature 26 countries while another 26 will compete in World Group II play-offs. India will feature in the World Group I Play-offs with the dates to be determined by the host nation. An official of the All India Tennis Association (AITA) told PTI that its team will play at home. According to the official Davis Cup website, the choice of ground for the tie between India and Togo will be decided by lot at a later stage.

Man City, PL both claim win over case

AFP @ Manchester

MANCHESTER City and the Premier League both claimed victory on Monday after the champions challenged the English top flight's rules on commercial deals.

City launched legal action against the associated party transaction (APT) rules earlier this year on the grounds they were anti-competitive. The APT rules are designed to ensure commercial deals with entities linked to a club's owners reflect fair market value. The case is separate from an ongoing hearing involving City, with the club fighting 115 charges relating to alleged breaches of Premier League financial rules.

The Premier League said on Monday that City were "unsuccessful in the majority of (their) challenge" and that the tribunal considering the case had determined the APT rules were necessary and pursued a legitimate objective. But City released a statement saying the tribunal had declared the APT rules "unlawful" and that the league had abused a dominant position under competition law.

The Premier League said the tribunal had supported the legitimacy of the regulations and said it had found them essential to make the profitability and sustainability rules (PSR) effective. It said the tribunal had agreed with the Premier League that if a transaction was evidently not at fair market value, that would distort competition within the league.

The league also said the panel had rejected City's argument that the purpose of the rules was to discriminate against clubs with ownership from the Gulf region. The Premier League said the panel found in favour of City in "two respects only" – that shareholder loans should not be excluded from APT rules and that a "limited number of amendments" to the APT rules made earlier should not be retained.

Manchester City said the panel found the APT rules were "structurally unfair" and that the panel had set aside specific decisions of the Premier League to restate the fair market value of two transactions entered into by the club.

CT: Confident that India will travel to Pak, says PCB chief

AGENCIES @ Lahore

PAKISTAN Cricket Board (PCB) chairman Mohsin Naqvi on Monday expressed confidence that the upcoming Champions Trophy would be held in the country and all teams, including India, would participate in the event. India hasn't sent its team to Pakistan since July 2008 due to tense political relations between the two countries. "Indian team should come. I don't see them cancel or postpone coming here and we are confident we will host all the teams in the Champions Trophy in Pakistan," Naqvi said. He also said that Pakistan was prepared to host all teams including India.

FAREWELL

Karmakar bids adieu, hopes to polish skills of next-gen gymnasts

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

THE two-and-a-half somersaults before landing – it may sound easy but on the vault it could be dangerous. Considered one of the most difficult routines in gymnastics, the Produnova could be fatal if not clinically executed. For Dipa Karmakar, this form defines her. So much has this become integral to her gymnastic routine, that she slowly earned the moniker, 'Produnova Girl'.

Dipa reached the zenith at the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro. She became the talking point. For a gymnast hailing from a remote corner in India (Agartala in Tripura) where gymnastics is not even in their collective consciousness, this was a remarkable journey. Even the great Simon Biles acknowledged. "She is special. I wouldn't have tried to do that (the Produnova). It's insane," she had said after winning another of her medal in vault on August 14, 2016, during the Olympics. The scores were a testament to Dipa's prodigious talent, almost freakish. Biles' two jumps fetched her 15.900 and 16.033, for an average of 15.966. Maria Paseka of Russia was second with 15.253 and Switzerland's Giulia Steingruber third with 15.216. Dipa was 0.15 points behind the Swiss. Dipa was the first Indian to be at the Olympics and first in the final and the only one to finish fourth until now.

Life had not been very easy for Dipa in the last 'five years'. She had struggled. The years were peppered with two surgeries, a doping suspension and despite being the No 1 gymnast was not considered for the Asian Games. Yet it was not until she won gold at the nationals that she wanted to say goodbye to a sport she loved. Coached by Bishweshwar Nandi, Dipa had a very modest beginning. There were no fancy cushions to land. There were no proper equipment. Yet, she excelled in a sport where India struggled. Like all good things, even her career had to come to an end. "I have realised my body is not responding as it was earlier," said Dipa from Agartala. "Response nehi kar raha hai," she repeated, emphasising on the words. Once the body doesn't respond, she knows, for a gymnast it's the end. She sounded philosophical when she said "whatever begins has to end." "My body is not allowing me to do things I used to do earlier but I think about this positively and believe whatever happens, happens for good," she said. "I am thinking very positively about this."

Dipa's first brush with history was during the 2014 Commonwealth Games in Glasgow where she won bronze becoming the first Indian to win a medal in gymnastics. Looking back she said that each epochal moment in her career has its own importance. "Each of the moments has its own charm," she said. "It feels good that I have been part of history in each of the Games (Commonwealth and Asian). I hope this inspires the new generation of gymnasts to break my record and win medals." She thanked her parents and coach for supporting her throughout. Dipa is proud of being associated with one coach throughout her career. "You must have seen many athletes who change their coaches, but I have trained with the same coach (Nandi sir) since childhood. Initially I had a coach during the formative years and I have been with Nandi sir for the last 22 years. This is also an achievement!"

The 31-year-old is hoping she can help the youngsters after retirement. "In the future, I would love to coach youngsters and help them perform well," she said. "I want to share my international experience with them so that they do well. If coaching helps them then definitely I would like to do it."

With Dipa as a coach, who knows the next Produnova Girl may come out of her cradle?

Second-hand smoke or passive smoke is smoke from burning tobacco products inhaled by persons other than the active smoker. According to the World Health Organization, long-term exposure to second-hand smoke causes lung cancer, coronary heart disease and cardiac death, and kills an estimated 13 lakh people prematurely every year

ARE YOU FALLING ILL TOO OFTEN POST COVID?

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

ASHISH Sharma, 30, was infected with Covid-19, not once or twice, but four times in the past two years. As he was struggling to regain his strength and health back, he was infected with swine flu earlier this year. "It is as if the viruses have found a perfect host in me," joked the Delhi resident, who has been falling ill too often in the past two years or so.

The IT professional, after suffering for so long from various health issues, may be trying to put up a brave front by joking about his situation. But in the past two years, especially after the Covid-19 pandemic, many, including children, have complained that they have become more susceptible to illness.

Last year, a survey by LocalCircles, India's leading community social media platform, said that one in three Indian parents said their children have fallen sick with flu or respiratory symptoms four or more times post Covid. The study said that although children fall sick a couple of times during the year due to changes in weather, the frequency of these illnesses appears to be rising since early 2022 – after the third Covid-19 wave in India.

The reason people are falling ill too often could be due to a cocktail of viruses — from Covid-19, Influenza and H1N1, to dengue and Chikungunya. It is not that people were not falling ill earlier, but of late, it is too often, and their ailments, combined with weakness or even a wracking cough and cold, last longer. Dr Sunil Rana, associate director of Internal Medicine at Asian Hospital, Faridabad, agreed that we are seeing the emergence of many viruses. He said that people are falling ill so often not only because of new and existing viruses but due to various other reasons like a high-density population, poor hygiene practices, low vaccination rates and weather, which are conducive to the survival and spread of the viruses, by increasing the risk of infection and weakening of the immune system.

Dr Randeep Guleria, chairman of Internal Medicine, Respiratory and Sleep Medicine, Medanta, Gurugram, said, "We are detecting more new viruses now, partly due to improved diagnostic tools and awareness." The former director of the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) said it is essential to remain vigilant. "Many of these viruses and bacteria have the potential to cause outbreaks or pandemics, especially since we lack potent anti-viral treatments for many viruses and face growing anti-microbial resistance in bacteria," he said. "Moreover, human encroachment on animal habitats is causing more viruses to jump species. Viruses previously restricted to animals, such as bats or birds, are evolving and adapting to humans, enabling human-to-human transmission," added Dr Guleria.

So, what is a virus, and why is it so deadly? Viruses are germs or pathogens that can infect you and make you sick. They can infect humans, plants, animals, bacteria and even fungi. According to a research paper by the National Institutes of Health, "A virus is a small microorganism that must infect other cells to replicate. When a virus enters the human body, the immune system responds by producing antibodies, neutralising it and preventing transmission from the infected person. However, some viruses have evolved ways to evade detection by the human immune system, allowing them to spread undetected until they reach epidemic levels."

In the past four years, the coronavirus has emerged as the most well-known virus that has had a catastrophic effect on the world, and new variants and sub-lineages are still being detected. Emergence and re-emergence of viruses not only threatens the population but also the healthcare settings in India.

Professor Anil Kaul, director of the Indian Institute of Public Health (IIPH), Hyderabad, and head of Dr Cyrus Poonawalla Center for Infectious Diseases and Pandemic Preparedness Centre, Hyderabad, Telangana, said that viruses and bacteria have been around much longer than humans. Their only purpose is to survive and propagate, and they will do whatever possible to do that.

"Although new or emergent viruses are generally very virulent, their virulence is limited by several host factors, including our natural immunity. If we have been previously infected by a pathogen similar to the emergent one, we may also benefit from cross-immunity," he said.

What should also be kept in mind is that nearly all emerging viruses, including dengue, Nipah, West Nile, Zika, and coronaviruses, have zoonotic origins, indicating that animal-to-human transmission constitutes a primary mode of acquisition of these diseases, he pointed out.

In August, the World Health Organisation (WHO) updated its list of the 'most dangerous viruses and bacteria' that could trigger the next pandemic. The number of pathogens listed has grown to more than 30, including the Influenza A virus, dengue, and Mpox, previously called monkeypox. The latter caused the World Health Organization, on August 14, to declare a global public health emergency for the second time in two years. The announcement came following an outbreak of the viral infection in the Democratic Republic of Congo, that is fast spreading in neighbouring African countries.

India has also reported its first case of Mpox clade 1b, the fast-spreading and severe viral strain, from Kerala. Sweden and Thailand are the two other countries that have reported clade 1b detection outside Africa. The WHO said that the list of 'priority pathogens' will help organisations decide where to focus their efforts in developing treatments, vaccines and diagnostics.

The priority pathogens were selected for their potential to cause a global public health emergency, such as a pandemic, as they are highly transmissible and virulent, and there is limited access to treatments for them. Increasing urbanisation and globalisation, with increased international travel and trade, and climate change, also increase the likelihood that the threat of emerging pathogens will continue. Factors such as deforestation and habitat changes can also impact how one can come in contact with wild animals and consequently promote virus emergence, said Professor Kaul, who is also the former clinical professor and programme director of Global Health at the Oklahoma State University and Senior Public Health Advisor, US Department of State.

According to Dr Rajeev Jayadevan, co- chairman of the National Indian Medical Association (IMA) Covid Task Force, we are not only under threat from emerging pathogens such as Zika, Nipah and Ebola but also existing pathogens that are undergoing resurgence due to multiple reasons. He said that viruses that cause infectious diseases can either emerge cyclically, like in the case of Covid-19, or become seasonal, like influenza. "With international travel becoming accessible to all, the spread of such diseases can occur rapidly between continents and countries," he added.

What also adds to the problem is that many viruses causing disease in developing nations are mosquito-borne. "With climate change and inadequate measures for vector control, mosquito-borne viral diseases have become amplified in the past three years," Dr Jayadevan pointed out.

He said that unless effective vector control measures are undertaken throughout the year, there could be many more people falling ill and also dying in the future. "Climate change has a role not only in facilitating the growth of vectors such as mosquitoes but also in augmenting the activity and spillover of certain viruses." However, he said, the pandemic has taught the world the need to be alert and work together against common enemies such as dangerous viruses. "It is because of the speed of our actions that millions of lives were saved during the pandemic. Since these infectious diseases do not respect national or international boundaries, and with increased globalisation, trade and travel, strong international cooperation and coordination will be essential in combating them effectively," said Prof Kaul.

VULNERABLE TO VIRUSES

In the last two years, especially after the Covid-19 pandemic, many have complained that they have become more susceptible to falling sick

According to a survey by LocalCircles last year, one in three Indian parents stated that their children have fallen sick with flu or respiratory symptoms four or more times post Covid-19

The frequency of these illnesses appears to be rising since early 2022 – since the third Covid-19 wave in the country, the survey said

The reason people are falling ill too often could be due to a cocktail of viruses – from Covid-19, Influenza and H1N1 to dengue and Chikungunya

Coronavirus has emerged as the most well-known virus that has had a catastrophic effect on the world in the past four years, with new variants and sub-lineages still being detected

The best way forward, experts say, is to strengthen public health infrastructure and develop strategies to handle potential surges in cases

TRADITION TWIRLING INTO

With Navratri in full swing, Bengalureans have taken to Garba and Dandiya with open arms, not only for the joy of dancing but also as a way to embrace a shared cultural heritage

POOJA DAS

COMMUNITY and festivity often go hand in hand, and celebrations like Dasara are the perfect backdrop for creating shared memories through cultural exchange. In recent years, a unique way of celebrating this collective joy in Bengaluru has emerged by embracing the traditional folk dances of regions such as Rajasthan and Gujarat. Dandiya and Garba nights have become a popular way for both long-time Bengalureans and new residents to revel in the spirit of Navratri and Dasara, blending regional traditions with the city's diverse cultural fabric.

"We started in 2019, initially hosting just a one-day event. Last year, we expanded to a three-day event with around 4,000 attendees across the three days. The response has been overwhelming," says Soumya, organiser of 'Everybody Can Dandiya' with DesiClans. "Many Dandiya events in clubs didn't seem to meet people's expectations, so we focused on authenticity by bringing artistes from Ahmedabad. Our goal was to offer an authentic Garba experience while also appealing to the modern crowd, blending tradition with modernity." This year, the event will feature multiple events and three different artistes from Gujarat.

Alongside the events, workshops have played a pivotal role in spreading the love for Dandiya and Garba across the city. "People wanted to learn the dance, so we started offering workshops," says Soumya. These workshops, which began modestly, have now expanded across various parts of the city, even entering corporate and apartment settings. "Last year, we conducted workshops for over a month, and the enthusiasm we've seen is incredible," he adds.

Steep Step Up

Kiran Kumar S, a choreographer and cardio fitness instructor, echoes the sentiment. As someone who has been conducting Garba workshops for over half a decade, Kumar notes, "Bengalureans have embraced Garba and Dandiya as part of their Navratri celebrations. Bollywood's influence has played a huge role in making these dances popular with songs like Nagada Sang Dhol and Chogada Tara." The group dance nature of Garba, which encourages people to dance in circles or pairs, fosters a sense of togetherness, making it perfect for corporate events and community celebrations. "People don't just come to learn the steps. It's about community, celebration, and joy," he adds.

With the rise of these traditional dances and almost a hundred events organised across the city, the demand for appropriate attires has been booming. Shops across the city have seen significant growth in business, especially during the Navratri season. "We are already sold out. The demand for traditional outfits like chaniya choli, Kediyu Gujarati dress, and fish-cut lehengas has increased tremendously," says Varun Shah, owner of Arihant Traders, a costume shop. "People are eager to dress up for the Dandiya and Garba nights, and we've also seen a rise in the demand for accessories to complete the outfits."

Many of the city's residents are increasingly drawn to the festive spirit. "We're a group of 10-12 people, planning to attend the Dandiya night at Palace Grounds next week," shares Palak Goel, a software developer in the city, adding that they are planning to buy the traditional attire this year. Originally from Uttar Pradesh, Goel sees the celebration as a way to stay connected with her cultural roots while living far from home. "Last year, I went to three different places and it was really fun. It is a way for me to enjoy something that is rooted in my traditions while being far from home," she explains.

Bollywood's influence has played a huge role in making these dances popular with songs like Nagada Sang Dhol and Chogada Tara. People don't just come to learn the steps. It's about community, celebration, and joy – Kiran Kumar S, choreographer

DEAR LIFE

Novelist, Illustrator, Speaker

I am a mother and after shifting to full-time remote work, I've been struggling with loneliness, finding motivation, and excessive phone use. Balancing family, health, and work feels overwhelming. How do I get back on track?

Human beings naturally crave connection as we are hardwired with an inherent need to belong. After caring for your child and finishing your work, you have little time for yourself or to make friends. Arrange for someone to look after your child for a few hours, three times a week. Use two of those days to join a group class, aerobics, yoga, or dance, where you can meet people outside of work. Dedicate the third day entirely to yourself. Pamper yourself with a spa or salon visit. You deserve it for being a hard-working mother.

ASK AN XPERT

Create boundaries. Charge your phone away from your bed. Set time limits on social media apps. Replace scrolling with an engrossing book or start journaling to create a positive bedtime routine. There are many resources online for this. Once you establish such routines and make new friends, you will feel good about yourself. Give yourself the love you deserve and remember, this is a passing phase.

- Make sure the right ankle aligns with the left knee. Exhale. Shift the body weight onto your left knee and hand.
- Ensure your right leg is straight and active. Inhale. Place the right hand on your waist.
- Exhale and turn to the right. Inhale, extend your right arm up in Side Plank Pose Variation (One Knee On The Floor) and the palm facing down, aligning the chin with chest.

CLOSE & CLOSER

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

WHAT is the one thing that differentiates a partner for you from other people in your life? What makes the partner relationship a special one?

If we are lucky, and if we have taken the time and effort on top of what luck brings into our life, we might have a great bunch of people in our life as friends, family and others. You might have inner and outer circles of connections with increasing levels of closeness and comfort as you get closer to the centre of the circles where it is you. The closeness is what we cherish, the intimacy with which we gather people into our life and hold them like protective shields as we face the world with all its complexities.

In a partner, it is this closeness that becomes a bit extra special, even if there are a whole lot of other people we might consider close to us. A partner is expected to be closer, more intimate than others.

For some of us, being emotionally close comes more easily than it does for others. If we think of how easily we get close to people as a scale of 1 to 10, some people are happy to be at a 7 or 8 with a lot of people, feeling pretty close to a large number and actually practising that degree of closeness and connection on an ongoing basis, constantly checking in, remembering things, dates, events and anniversaries, making sure they turn up when needed and just being awesome in how it is a genuine, authentic and very felt closeness. For a lot of others, this closeness might cap out at 5 or 6, and for quite a few, the degree of closeness doesn't go beyond 3 for pretty much everyone in their life.

When you are in the happy middle, intimate partners get boosted up to a 8-9 on this scale of closeness, connection and intimacy, when other important people are at a good 5 or 6, and that difference between who is close and who is intimate, is very clear. Everyone can see it – your friends and others can tell who is special, and more importantly, the special someone knows they are special to you because of this difference.

The problems are not in the middle of the curve, they are with those on either end of the spectrum. For people at 8-9 on that scale, the chosen partner might not feel special enough and wonder if they are important at all. For people who are quite private, and rarely let anyone closer, where friends and others are at 3-4, and a partner gets bumped to a 5 or 6, while they might feel that they are double as intimate as they are with others, the partner might still feel as if they are quite distant, with huge parts of one's inner life not accessible to another, and that might leave the partner feeling like they are being excluded.

Check for yourself how you are doing on this scale, and maybe it might just spark a connection!

'WILL HAVE 50 PER CENT WOMEN IN TEAM'

Kiran Rao on her feature film Laapataa Ladies being India's offical entry for the 2025 Oscars, and more

NITIKA KRISHNA

LADIES, go for it! Go for it!" says film director, producer, and writer Kiran Rao, giving a message to young women joining the film industry and looking to make strides. Rao has recently been in the news for her film Laapataa Ladies which has surpassed 28 other Indian films to be the country's official entry in the Best International Feature Film category for the 2025 Oscars. "India's entry in itself is an award for me. I am so humbled and we will do our best to make everyone proud," says Rao. The film, set in rural India, explores themes such as marriage, patriarchy, and societal norms. Two veiled, red saree-donning brides, Phool (Nitanshi Goel) and Jaya (Pratibha Ranta), undertake an adventurously arduous journey of self-discovery after being mistakenly exchanged during a train ride to their respective homes after marriage. Though both of them go through very different experiences, they learn, unlearn, and wake up in their own ways. Rao says, "The idea of the veil is a great physical metaphor showing that there is a dayra or limit that circumscribes their potential. We did not critique any type of veil; at the end of the film, they are still wearing veils and it doesn't matter because it is their choice." The original story, called Two Brides, was written by Biplab Goswami. Rao tweaked several aspects of this story for her film and also introduced a character called Manju Mai, a quirky middle-aged woman Phool meets at a train station. "Manju Mai symbolises women's independence, living on her own terms. The women in our lives – our mothers, aunts, grandmothers, sisters – have done so much for us. Yet their work is not valued and Manju Mai really essays that as a character," says Rao, who, going forward 'plans to have 50 per cent of women in her filmmaking team'.

Further, Rao highlighted the need for more women, queer people and those from marginalised backgrounds to be in filmmaking. "But I do believe there are sensitive male directors as well; just look at The Great Indian Kitchen! And as someone raising a son, the human that he is speaks about who I am! So, raising empathetic boys is important," she says.

Rao is also working on films in the comedy, dark drama and supernatural horror categories. Signing off she says, "When you have humour, it creates a space for conversation."

TALKING ART

DOLLS
THAT SCULPTED CULTURE

JITHA KARTHIKEYAN

(The writer is an artist and curator, passionate about making art accessible to the larger public)

THE word art instantly brings forth visions of art classes with a box of paints (round, hard cakes mostly), from which colours ooze when prodded by a water dipped brush to create sunrises and lakeside cottage views. Or sometimes, it reminds one of museums that find their way to any must-see list for tourists, eager to proclaim their worldly cultural awareness and appreciation with perfectly worded Instagrammable photographs. We chase these defined notions of what art is, without realising that art is all around us. It permeates our lives in subtle ways. It finds its way to the smaller details of our existence – our food, clothing, and our traditions.

For most of us, as children, the beginning of Navratri, the Festival of Nine Nights simply translated into a week of holidays and a much needed respite from homework. Adulthood transformed this to a festival of seeking blessings for our work and our academic pursuits. And how can art not seep into the festivities? It certainly did, in the form of brightly painted sculptures displayed on a tiered platform in households.

The enchanting Kolu or Golu tradition is a spectacular sight indeed. Meticulously arranged dolls on wooden stands tell tales from our Indian culture, adorned with flowers and rangoli patterns on the floor, while invited guests pay their visits.

These showcased figurines have their origins in the royal courts of South India. Opulent doll collections declared the wealth and power of kings and queens. The exhibit was well curated and served as extravagant reminders of their stature. The artisans who made these dolls were highly skilled and perfectly capable of executing the responsibility entrusted. By the end of the 19th century, the tradition of Kolu slowly transcended palace walls and spread among larger society, thus stripping itself of the grandeur associated with royal ambitions. However, for a long time after, the practice was still linked to the upper class and the affluent. Once detached from its connections with monarchy, the tradition took on a religious context.

Made of a very fine powder of wood dust mixed with tamarind seed paste in the 19th century, these dolls were painted by artisans who sold them to their affluent patrons. Although sculptures of a religious nature dominated the display, there were also playful ones as well as scenes from everyday life. In the 20th century, artisans started experimenting even further, giving in to popular trends. Hence, feature film inspired dolls and replicas of imported figurines from the colonial era were created as welcome additions to the ones that existed.

These dolls are not merely a ritual. They are one of the world's most ancient forms of moulding clay and an astounding combination of sculpture and painting. Each doll, preserved by families over generations, tells the memory of a story. Like a thread that binds the past with the present, this art form is an embodiment of the cultural diversity of our country. Contemporary times may have diluted its significance, thus discouraging the creation of these dolls, but it is in our hands to allow these tiny sculptures an eternal place in our hearts.

INTERVIEW

NOTHING CAN DIM THE LIGHT OF MARTIN: A P ARJUN

In a candid conversation ahead of this week's release, director highlights the film as a collective effort that will showcase Dhruva Sarja in a unique role, justifying his title as the 'Action Prince'

A P Arjun

A SHARADHAA

MARTIN, which started as a promising collaboration between Dhruva Sarja and AP Arjun, has encountered significant hurdles over the past three years. While the journey has been tumultuous, Director AP Arjun remains resolute. He asserts, "Nothing can dim the light of Martin. Irrespective of the shadows cast upon me, cinema and my vision as a director will never falter."

With the film set to release in over 3,000 theatres worldwide, across multiple languages on October 11, Arjun remains undeterred by setbacks and is firm in his fight to uphold his brand as a director. "Despite a few hiccups, I ensured a quality product. The audience will see my dedication on screen," he insists, adding, "This is my sixth film, and when it hits theatres, it will showcase the essence of AP Arjun—screenplay, dialogues, lyrics, and direction. My brand name is my identity."

Creative differences are not uncommon in filmmaking, and while Arjun acknowledges that every film faces challenges, he shares that Martin encountered particularly unfortunate issues, which came out in public. "I've fought for my credit, and the court ruling on my inclusion in promotions was a step toward justice. Identity and existence are every person's fundamental rights; I'm merely defending my brand."

Reflecting on the evolution of Martin, he explains, from when he was brought into the picture. "It began in 2021, but the timeline stretched due to various factors, including Dhruva's commitments to another project. I even paused my other film, Addhuri Lover, after completing fifteen days of shooting and spending 45 lakhs, all because I wanted to dedicate my time to Martin." He adds candidly, "Cinema cannot be the product of one person; it's a collective effort. We must respect each role in this creative process."

Arjun acknowledges the challenges of Martin's lengthy production: "The journey has been lengthy; what was supposed to take a year turned into three. Dhruva Sarja faced the added complexity of undergoing drastic physical transformations for both KD and Martin while juggling his time between the two projects."

As the film gears up for its release, Arjun expresses his optimism about the film and its potential to highlight Dhruva Sarja's reputation as the 'Action Prince'. He explains, "While my work is known in Karnataka, audiences for Pan-Indian films are eager for fresh experiences. Bringing the visionary elements of Martin to life was a significant undertaking. This film truly justifies Dhruva Sarja's Action Prince persona."

When asked about the future of his partnership with Dhruva, he responds, "Times will tell if we'll collaborate again. If everything aligns, we can create magic together again." He states with a valuable lesson: "Establishing a proper timeline is crucial before embarking on any project. This experience has taught us all the importance of planning in filmmaking."

AP Arjun stands strong. The journey may have been long and winding, but as Arjun states, "Without a director, there is no cinema. And with Martin, we're ready to show the world what we've created."

CE FEATURES

SINCE the announcement of Toxic, Yash's highly anticipated project, all eyes have been on the Rocking Star. The grand film, directed by Geetu Mohandas and produced by KVN Productions and Monster Mind Creations, recently wrapped its first major schedule in Bengaluru. Made with a significant budget and a sweeping canvas, Toxic will be released in multiple languages. Yash, known for letting his work speak for itself, is progressing organically through his schedule, and the next phase of production is set to take place in Mumbai.

As the team prepares for their next steps, Yash and his crew plan to resume shooting in the Film Capital by the end of October. According to sources, the ensemble cast will be present in Mumbai, where a substantial portion of the film featuring Yash and Kiara Advani, who plays the female lead, will be filmed. Plans are also in place to shoot some song segments during this time.

The film boasts a stellar cast, including actors Nayanthara and Huma Qureshi, both of whom were recently spotted in Bengaluru for filming. The real hero of Jungle Mangal is its story Yash Shetty

The film directed by Rakshit Kumar stars Yash Shetty as lead

CE FEATURES

KNOWN for his character roles, Yash Shetty steps into the spotlight as the lead in his latest film, Jungle Mangal. Set against the lush backdrop of the semi-montane forests in Malenadu, this film, written and directed by Rakshit Kumar, weaves together cultural diversity, mystery, and romance. The project is backed by Sahyadri Studios, and the title was launched by director Simple Suni, who expressed his confidence in the film, thanking producer Manu Shedgar and investor Prajeet Hegde for their support. He urged audiences to support Jungle Mangal, which is set to release next month.

In a media interaction, Yash expressed his enthusiasm about the project, saying, "The real hero of this film is the story. It's unique and compelling. I was originally meant to play a character role, but the director later considered me for the lead. I'm truly grateful to the entire team for this chance."

Director Rakshit Kumar, who hails from Puttur, highlighted the film's deeper themes, stating, "Jungle Mangal draws from events that have occurred, are currently happening, and will continue as long as humanity and nature exist. Malenadu, where the story unfolds, is a unique region at the confluence of two worlds—above and below the ghats—and much of it was shot in the forests of Subrahmanya."

Harshita Ramachandra, who plays Divya—a middle-class girl torn between love and family—shared her character's struggle: "Divya faces a tough choice between her love for an irresponsible boy and her family's expectations. How she navigates this dilemma is a key part of the film that audiences will find engaging."

Jungle Mangal features music by Prasad K Shetty, with an additional background score by Poornachandran Tejaswi.
